G. T. ROAD WILL USE HAMBURG PIER, TOO

The Hamburg-American Line will dock its ships at the Commonwealth Pier and the Grand Trunk Railroad will be privileged to run its trains down to the freight sheds that are soon to arise upon the gigantic dock.

General Hugh Bancroft, chairman of the Port Directors, has already set about the preliminary work of building the pier and he has notified Herr Ballin of the Hamburg-American Line that he is now authorized to do business with the giant German steamship line.

The Governor's Council yesterday did what they should have done a week ago, ratified the agreement between the Port Directors and the New Haven Railroad. The weakness of the Council's plea that there was a demand for a hearing by those opposed to the plan was demonstrated at the meeting when only one person appeared against it, and that man opposed it upon the ground of the unconstitutionality of the act of the Legislature creating the Port Directors, a matter which the Attorney-General had already settled.

It took the Councillors only three minutes after the hearing closed to discover that they were all in favor of the recovery of the Commonwealth Dock and the construction there of a modern terminal at the cost of $2,500,000.

The hearing, however, brought out one interesting point, that the Grand Trunk Railroad is likely to enter Boston at South Boston instead of East Boston, for Charles S. Baxter, attorney for the Grand Trunk, appeared in favor of the Fort Directory plan. He said:

President Earl Fitzhugh of the Central Vermont has declared that the Commonwealth Pier in South Boston is best suited to a great passenger terminal because it is so easily accessible from the city. President Fitzhugh told Port Director Hugh Bancroft that he ought to get this pier back from the New Haven, even if the Mellen road paid $300,000 yearly rental instead of $70,000.

This is regarded as particularly significant as revealing in part the plans of the Grand Trunk. The route of entry into Boston generally suggested was from the north and a terminal at Bird Island Flats was suggested. Now it appears that the

OREGON WILSON BY TODAY'S FIGURES

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 7.—Only one-fifth of the vote has been counted thus far, but it seems certain now that Governor Wilson has carried the State by 8,000. The senatorial race is unusually close, Lane, Democrat, leading by about 800 votes. The single tax amendment was defeated.

CALIFORNIA STAYS IN WILSON LIST

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Wilson's plurality has been badly cut down by late returns, but it looks now as if there is no doubt of his victory.

The most surprising feature of the election was the tremendous vote polled for Debs, the Socialist candidate drawing more than 60,000 votes.

HEARST CABLES HIS CONGRATULATIONS TO WILSON AND SULZER

Congratulations, both on your personal victory and on the fact that you will have a Democratic House and Senate to support the policies of your administration.

To Governor-elect Sulzer Mr. Hearst cabled:

Sincere congratulations. Looking forward with earnest pleasure and confidence to the democratic achievements of your administration.

SECRET BILL IN WHITTIER CASE

The Grand Jury today returned two secret indictments before Judge Brown of the Superior Criminal Court.

It is known that one of the indictments was the result of the Grand Jury's investigation of the strange death by cyanide of potassium of Fred M. Whittier in the apartment of Wilford J. Litchfield in Hotel Navarre.

The death of Whittier attracted especial attention because of the fact that he had claimed that he was a relative of the famous poet, Whittier.

Whittier was an old acquaintance of Litchfield, a college graduate and genealogist.

Whittier died from the poison taken in capsule form. It is said that the police were unable to find the druggist who sold the poison.

FINAL RETURNS GIVE KANSAS TO WILSON

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Nov. 7.—Governor Stubbs conceded today the defeat of the Republican and Bull Moose tickets in the State. At first Kansas was conceded to Roosevelt, but final counts show Wilson not only carried the State, but carried along with him Thompson, Democrat, for the United States Senate, over Stubbs.

PROF. OKOKAKURA TO RETURN TO MUSEUM

'BACK TO THE SIGN LANGUAGE'

Back to the universal sign language of primitive man. So says Sir William Ramsay, the famous scientist who is now in Boston. He told the students at Technology yesterday that Esperanto and the rest of the so-called universal languages will never do.

Sir William has invented a universal language just for a hobby, and he told the students all about it.

The language expresses ideas in pictures, not words. For instance, the idea man appears as the well-known schoolboy drawing of an upright line, with two lines for legs, and a circle for the head. The same picture will do for a woman, except, as Sir William explained, a line is added across the bottom of the two legs, meaning a skirt. Sir William continued:

Modernized Chinese.

"My idea is very different from these or the modification called Ido," said Sir William, "and more like a modernized Chinese, only that there shall be no attempt to pronounce it, and each one will read it in his own tongue."

There was given then a short dissertation on letters in which Sir William showed his familiarity with even the Oriental tongues. The Egyptians had picture characters, just as the North American Indians and other aborigines.

There are about five hundred combinations of these Egyptian letters, so that it is not a difficult task for any one to learn them, but here there comes the fact that the same combination would have a number of meanings for each combination, so that little picture signs are necessary to show which group is the one defining the meaning. The old Egyptian was, therefore, a sort of "double-barrelled" language.

The Origin of Writing.

Sir William noted that on some of the islands in the Mediterranean a division took place. On the one side there were developed the individual letters with which we are so familiar, while in the Orient there came the Sanscrit and Hebrew letters and the Chinese signs.

Some of this development was shown that of a from the picture of the horned bull, but now standing on the horns with the nostrils uppermost, for example. But in the Chinese it was the picture that survived, the sides of an almost vertical angle, being the legs of a man standing for the word man. But many of the pictures separated themselves from the origin and have their meanings changed.

The outline of the language was then developed, being the expression of ideas and not of words.

World Famed Chemist.

Sir William Ramsay, K. C. B., famous for his researches and discoveries in chemistry, is one of the world's greatest scientists. His present visit to Boston is for the purpose of delivering a series of lectures in the Lowell Institute course. He is the discoverer of several of the constituents of the air.

He is professor of chemistry in the University College, London, having held the position since 1887. He was knighted in 1902, in recognition of his brilliant work. Among his best known scientific papers are those on Argon, Helium, Neon, Krypton and Xenon, on "The Discovery of the Constituents of the Air," and on the transmutation of radium into helium.

Sir William was born in Glasgow, October 2, 1852. Among his degrees and titles are LL. D., D. Sc., Ph. D., F. R. S., F. C. S., Commander of the Crown of Italy and Officer of the Legion of Honor. He is an honorary member of scientific societies all over the world

Lily Langtry, Angry at Criticism, Closes Her Tour in a Rage

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—When Lily Langtry fails to break into print by acting she seeks the other extreme and comes to act. Although the United Booking Offices insist upon cloaking the entire affair with mystery, the fact remains that she has ceased portraying the imprisoned suffragette, "Helping the Cause," the act in which she was making her vaudeville tour in this country, has come to an abrupt stop in Pittsburgh.

Disputches had it that she was ill, that adverse criticisms of her sketch had ingenged her that she had become a nervous wreck.

Two members of her company came in for much adverse criticism, and the upshot of the whole affair was that Lady De Bathe went to bed and refused to arise for rehearsal.

Whether Mrs. Langtry's temperament was ploughed too deeply by the criticisms of whether the United Booking Offices "closed" the act, as they say on Forty-second street, is most mystifying, because her managers protest that they know nothing about the affair.

WILSON MAY YET CARRY ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—With 600 precincts to hear from, indications were that Woodrow Wilson had swung Illinois into the Democratic column. The returns at that time indicated a plurality of 1,500 for the Princeton man. The returns latest received cut the lead of former President Roosevelt, and Democratic leaders believe the precincts still to hear from favor their candidate. The Progressive leaders expect the result to be very close.

ROOSEVELT LEADING IN MINNESOTA VOTE

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—Returns early today from virtually half the precincts in Minnesota show Roosevelt slightly in the lead over Wilson. The Colonel's plurality on the returns received is approximately 7,500. Taft is running third. Late returns increase the lead of Governor Eberhardt for re-election.

WILSON LEADS IN EARLY WYOMING VOTE

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 7.—On a basis of returns from sixty-one out of 472 election districts, Governor Wilson carried this State by about 500 votes. The Republicans claim enough members in the Legislature to re-elect Senator Warren by a majority of five on joint ballot, but the Democrats make the same claim for their candidate. Representative Mondell, Republican, has been re-elected.

T. R. LEAD 30,000 IN PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Roosevelt's lead in Pennsylvania is definitely settled at about 30,000. Five-sixths of all the vote is in and Roosevelt leads by 19,073. The vote as tabulated thus far is: Roosevelt, 384,384; Wilson, 365,311; Taft, 235,331.

10 STATES NOW GIVE SUFFRAGE TO WOMEN

As a result of Tuesday's election women now possess suffrage upon equal terms with men in all elections in ten States out of the forty-eight in the Union, four States having been added this year.

The four new States in which the fight of the women won are Michigan, Kansas, Oregon and Arizona. The majorities in Oregon, Arizona and Kansas were of substantial character. The returns from Michigan show that the vote will go close there, but it looks sure for woman suffrage.

Previous to this election women could vote and hold office in the following States: Wyoming, established in 1869; Colorado, in 1893; Utah, in 1896; Idaho, in 1896; Washington, in 1910, and California earlier this year.

Coming Here in Nine Years.

Suffrage for women in Massachusetts is nine years and universal suffrage all over the United States within twenty-five years, was the prediction of Mrs. Thomas G. Curtis, society woman and suffrage leader, as she told today of her delight over the accession of four more suffrage States, Michigan, Arizona, Kansas and Oregon. She said:

I expect to cast my first ballot with my son, who is now twelve years old, that will be in nine years. Within twenty-five years I hope to cast my ballot for President.

The victory in Michigan was one of the greatest triumphs for the suffrage cause. With it located so far East, it is only the entering wedge for suffrage throughout the entire East.

The victory in Oregon was not so much to be wondered at. With suffrage States of California, Washington, Idaho and Utah all around, the voters there saw that it was not foolish to allow women to vote. They saw that it was a good thing and they voted the suffrage.

Now we have won Michigan, it is only an entering wedge in the East. The States around it will see how suffrage works there; they will be pleased with it and, when it comes up again we can expect victory in bordering States.

In Kansas they have had municipal suffrage for some time, but the step from municipal suffrage to State suffrage is a wide one. Suffragists always stand for a principle. In fighting for this principle in municipal elections they necessarily incur the enmity of many dishonest and corrupt officials. These officials are powerful in their wards.

When defeated by the women's votes they turn all their energies to putting their henchmen and followers against suffrage, and the result is when the question of State suffrage comes up, these dishonest and corrupt men, whom the Suffragists have thrown out of office, come out with might and main against it.

This was the situation in Kansas, but we triumphed as right always will eventually. Now we will go after the dishonest State officials, if we find any.

If they would give us municipal suffrage in Boston we would be content for a while, for I think we could do a great deal of good in city politics.

BEGIN DIRECT VOTE BATTLE

A fight for a direct primary, to give the people of the State a chance to say who shall be their next United States Senator, was begun today by the leaders of the Democratic party. With previous assurances of support from progressive Republicans and Progressive party leaders, there is every prospect of success, according to Mayor Fitzgerald and Governor Foss.

Mayor Fitzgerald has come out for a primary. Former Governor Draper, Congressmen McCall and Weeks have not taken a stand on the matter. It is not believed, however, that any one of them will join with the Mayor in the demand for a primary.

Standing with Mayor Fitzgerald in the demand for a primary are not only Governor Foss and the Democratic party leaders, but Joseph Walker, former Speaker, and of great influence with the new members of the Legislature because of his recent candidacy for Governor; Charles S. Bird, who laid great emphasis on the need for a direct primary during his campaign, and promised to keep it up; and Norman White, one of the most influential of the Progressive leaders, whose stand on direct primaries is well known.

Mayor Fitzgerald believes that the primary could be held while the Legislature was in session. He suggests:

The Legislature could meet and adjourn from day to day, until the primary had been held, and there would be ample time for the Senator chosen after such a primary to take his seat in Washington on March 4.

Mathew Hale, chief spokesman of the Bull Moose party, who flooded the neighborhood with literature in favor of a direct primary, on purely ethical grounds, when it looked as though the Democrats would control the Legislature, wasn't very much excited about a direct primary today. He said:

"Mayor Fitzgerald's declaration for the senatorial primary now does not surprise me.

"When the Mayor and the Governor believed that they were going to control the Legislature they had no use for the primary when the demand was made for a special session.

"Now that they have lost on that score they are very anxious that the people should have a chance.

"The people should have a primary. Our position is unalterable on that point, but the conversion of Mr. Fitzgerald, coming under present conditions, is hardly one for which he can expect much praise."

Governor Foss has always, of course, favored a direct primary on the senatorship, and his influence will be thrown in that direction. Joseph Walker, who has considerable influence with the new Republican members of the Legislature, is an open advocate of the direct primary. And the Bull Moose members, unless they back off the high ethical pedestal, will welcome one with open arms. And with the two parties in the Legislature nearly even, there is every prospect of a good, close fight.

Mayor Fitzgerald's statement, the opening gun in the big fight, is:

In spite of the splendid vote for the State ticket and the Governor, a triumph by 50,000, the Governor will have in his council only one Democrat out of eight, just as, with a Republican victory by 100,000 only a few years ago, there was still one Democrat out of eight. Both branches of the General Court will be Republican. How does this strike the average citizen?

There is one reason for this, and one only. The gerrymandering methods of the Republican machine have prevented the Democratic party from obtaining the full measure of its victory on Tuesday. I have examined the returns from more than half the senatorial and representative districts, and they confirm my assertion that on an honest, fair districting, the vote of the parties being divided as it is, the Democracy would have won both the legislative branches.

When Governor Douglas was elected in the presidential year of 1904, only six Democrats were elected to the Senate and only sixty-eight Democrats were elected to the House. Four years ago only six Democrats were elected to the Senate and only fifty-three Democrats to the House, the membership of the houses being forty and 240, respectively.

Big Democratic Gains.

This year there will be not less than fourteen Democratic Senators, or an increase of 133 per cent. over 1905 and 1909, while the number of Democratic members of the House will be larger by forty, at least, than it was in 1909 and larger by twenty-five than it was in 1905, when Governor Douglas was elected. Moreover, there are not less than twenty districts in which the difference between the candidates is so small that a shift of less than 200 votes in each would change the representation from Republican to Democratic.

I believe that it is now time for the real leaders to get together and agree to submit the election of a United States Senator to the people in preferential primaries. Mr. Bird for the Progressives, Mr. Walker for the Republicans and Governor Foss for the Democrats all agreed before election that there should be direct primaries. If they still believe it, and are true in their campaign proclamations, they should meet and decide upon such action. As a matter of fact, the Governor has told me since election that he favors such a method.

ONLY STRAIGHT BETS PAID IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. — Wall Street busied itself yesterday in settling its wagers on the election results. Only the straight bets were paid. Those hinging on the pluralities of the various candidates will remain unsettled probably until the official count. It is estimated that about $50,000 was wagered that Taft would receive a larger popular vote than Roosevelt.

Fred Schumm paid only $2,000 on election bets yesterday, although there is $40,000 in his hands to be distributed when the final figures are made public. The payment of these bets hinges as a rule on the votes received by the various candidates, and many of them are freak bets.

This post is one that Senator Lodge has prized highest in his official life.

Seasick Man Jumps Into the Ocean from Steamship New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The story of a seasick passenger, who, upon being pitied for his condition, leaped overboard and was lost, was told today when the American liner New York docked. The passenger was Allen W. Gernert of Bridgeport, Ct., of the second cabin.

When Gernert boarded the liner at Queenstown he went at once to Dr. Stump, the ship's physician, and told him that he felt very despondent, and that he was not at all well. The doctor gave him some medicine and Gernert went to his stateroom. On Saturday at noon Gernert stood at the rail in the agonies of mal de mer. The purser came along and patted his shoulder.

"Cheer up old man," he said. "You won't die."

Gernert gave one look at Purser Matthews and then climbed over the rail and jumped into the rough sea.

PRESIDENT IS BACK IN WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Delayed nearly an hour by the heavy rains in the Alleghanies, President Taft reached Washington at 9:30 a. m. today, going immediately to the White House to commence the preparation of his annual message to Congress and to attend to a number of other official duties which he has been forced to neglect somewhat during the past months. Chief among these are the appointment of a successor to Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture, and the naming of an Indian commission.

ANY dealer will tell you that the sale of FATIMAS has increased faster than that of any other cigarette ever put on the market. This sensational growth is the result of extra quality put into the cigarettes, instead of into a fancy package.

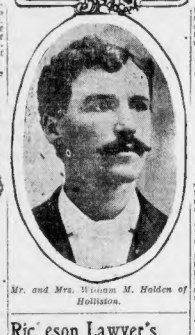
CHOIR SINGER AND HUSBAND WHO SUES MERCHANT



Mr. and Mrs. William M. Holden of Hollis ton.

MARITAL ROW GOES TO COURT

William M. Holden of Holliston declared today that there will be "sensations" when he trials begin at East Cambridge of two suits he has filed against Chester R. Gilmore, his well-to-do fellow townsman. One suit is for $5,000 for the alleged alienation of the affections of Mrs. Holden. The other is for $2,000 for injuries Holden says Gilmore inflicted on him.

"Wait till those suits are tried," said Holden, "They will be the most sensational ever staged at East Cambridge."

Mrs. Holden was a singer for twelve years in the First Congregational choir, Holliston. She is an active member of the women's lodges of two secret societies. As Florence Carr, she was one of the belles of Holliston.

Chester R. Gilmore is a provision dealer, whose store is near the Holden home on Washington street. Mrs. Holden traded at Gilmore's and Gilmore and Holden were thought to be close friends. Gilmore, in denying Holden's charges today, said he had often befriended Holden and even loaned him money.

Gilmore is a bachelor, a six-footer, weighing 260 pounds. Holden says that on September 28 he returned home at 10 o'clock and found Gilmore there. He declares the grocer attacked him, breaking two ribs and inflicting other injuries.

Mrs. Geraghty's Mother Dodges 'Jack' and Ills Kin

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 7.—The reconciliation between Mrs. Jack Geraghty, formerly Miss Julia French, and her mother, Mrs. Amos Tuck French, and Mrs. Stuyvesant Le Roy, her grandmother, since the birth of a son to the eloping couple, does not extend to Geraghty, nor to the Geraghty relatives.

Mrs. French and her mother visit Mrs. Geraghty in the hospital daily and are as interested in the baby as any grandmother and great-grandmother possibly can be.

Geraghty, his parents and relatives, who have been to see the mother and infant, have come when the relatives of the mother have paid their visit or before they arrived. Mrs. Geraghty's father, Amos Tuck French, and her aunt, Mrs. French Vanderbilt, have not called.

Ric eson Lawyer's Son Weds Secretly When Eloping Fails

William A. Morse, the lawyer who defended Clarence V. P. Richeson, has just learned that his son, Courtland G., married Miss Marion Hart, daughter of Albert Hart of No. 40 John's street, Jamaica Plain, secretly, the very day he caught him plotting an elopement and foiled it.

The wedding took place last week at the home of the bride's parents in Jamaica Plain. That morning Mr. Morse found his son packing his suitcase.

"Where are you going?" he queried.

"To elope," was the reply.

"Guess not," the elder Morse said, and then and there he halted the elopement plans of his son. But that very night the wedding took place and the young couple left for Portland, Me., on their honeymoon. They had planned to go there to be married.

Young Mr. Morse is a Harvard graduate. The father of his bride is head of the Hart Packing Company.

CRANK ON LADDER AT CARNEGIE HOME

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A crank who has been hovering around the Andrew Carnegie mansion in Fifth avenue for the last few days was ejected when he put a ladder against the high picket fence and tried to climb over. Mr. Carnegie was walking in the yard at the time. When the caretaker threatened to pull the ladder down the man begged: "Dont shoot!" He came down.

MISS SQUIERS WEDS AN ASTOR GRANDSON

DEMOCRATIC HEADS FOR COMMITTEES IN SENATE

twelve electoral votes, against 106 for Roosevelt, who was himself a very poor second, his popular vote fell far below that of Roosevelt, and was only about half that of Wilson.

Talk Fess for Cabinet.

Added zest is given to the talk of Cabinet possibilities by the prevailing belief that when the time for real appointments comes Eugene N. Foss, elected Governor for the third time, will leave his high office to become Secretary of the Treasury. Though the Governor has time and again said that the only office he regards more highly than that of Governor of the State is that of President of the United States, it is known that he would consent to serve in the Cabinet, if only to please Mr. Wilson.

Aside from the overwhelming sweep of the Democratic nominees, the most interesting feature of the result is the capture by Roosevelt of the election machinery in almost all the States of the Solid South, and in many of those in the North in which he took either first or second place. New York and Connecticut are exceptions. In a large majority of the States he ran second, and this will put him at the head of the second political party in the nation and give him a power wielded by no leader save the President himself.

The control of the House of Representatives by a majority of 100 or more was early established.

That the United States Senate, now held by the Republicans by the narrow margin of nine votes, will also be Democratic after March 4, either by three or four majority, there is no doubt.

Colorado, Kansas, Oregon and Tennessee, have elected Democratic legislatures, and will replace Republicans with Democrats. In Kansas, William S. Bompson, Democrat, will succeed Senator Curtis, Republican. Colorado will send two new Democratic Senators to Washington next year.

Cannon, McKinley Out.

In the latest news from Illinois it was found that not only had Uncle Joe Cannon been swept aside by the Roosevelt vote, but that William R. McKinley, Mr. Taft's campaign manager, who made a bitter pre-convention fight against the colonel, had also been beaten.

Michigan, Kansas, Oregon and Arizona joined the ranks of the States in which women will be given the suffrage. Colonel Roosevelt, despite his recent conversion to a woman's suffrage plank in the Progressive platform, did not carry a single State in which women were voting.

The vote by which Wilson was elected President is probably less than that received by Bryan when he was defeated in 1908.

Wilson's New York vote was 1,000 behind that of Governor-elect Sulzer, who, in turn, although elected by nearly 200,000 plurality, run behind the Hearst vote in 1908.

In Indiana, Ralston, the Democratic candidate for Governor was elected by a plurality of 10,000 over the Senator Beveridge, the Progressive nominee. Ralston is about 15,000 behind Wilson. The President-elect's plurality in Massachusetts was but 18,000, while Governor Foss was re-elected by 50,000.

Compromise G. O. P. Chance.

Estimates of the popular vote received by the three leading candidates ranged through more than a dozen as the returns came in. It will be a number of days before a complete calculation can be made. It is sure, however, that despite the great majority Wilson will have in the Electoral College, his vote will fall far behind the combined vote of Roosevelt and Taft. It being apparent that the Progressives received but a few votes from the Democratic party. It is evident from the result that the Republicans could have elected any compromise candidate.

Many surprises marked the progress of the count. New Hampshire, first credited Taft, went definitely into the Wilson column with a majority about 1,500.

Kansas, claimed as a sure Roosevelt State, was found to have gone Democratic, Legislature and all, making the Democratic control of the United States Senate absolutely sure. Senator Curtis, who has struck to Taft despite the announced opposition to him in the Sunflower State, will be succeeded by William H. Thompson, a Democrat, who is the primary nominee of his party.

In New York the Republicans felt they had secured victory enough in keeping Roosevelt from getting control of the election machinery for the next four years. When it was discovered that the Colonel was not even a close third in the race in the Empire State the reactionary leaders, including William Barnes, announced that were satisfied. The fear of the Colonel has been largely over Barnes and Root since the great primary vote in some of the Western States.

G. O. P. Loses Chairmanship.

The Republican machine was well organized, and turned out a bigger vote than was expected. Only eleven Republican Congressmen were elected out of the forty-three in the State's quota. One Progressive, William M. Chandler, was elected in the Nineteenth District by the aid of the Independence League.

The only Republican Congressman elected in the greater city was William F. Calder of Brooklyn.

The Democratic control of the United States Senate will mean a complete reorganization of that body, and the loss to the Republicans of the chairmanship of all the great committees which they have held for many years.

As chairmanships are, as a rule, disposed of by seniority, Southern Democrats will, in all probability, receive the most important assignments. Senator Bacon of Georgia is entitled to lead the Committee on Foreign Relations, a position now held by Henry Cabot Lodge; Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the Finance Committee, and Senator Tillman, the Committee on Appropriations. It is believed that Tillman will not accept this post, but, because of ill health, and that Senator Culberson of Texas will be appointed in his stead.

Senator Martin of Virginia is the ranking minority member of the District of Columbia Committee and is entitled to that chairmanship. If he takes some other post, then Senator Joseph E. Johnston of Alabama is next in line.

To the Democratic dupes of the chairmanships by seniority in the Senate, some of the important chairmanships will go to the following: Agriculture, Smith of Alabama; Appropriations, Tillman or Culberson; Civil Service, Clark of Arkansas; Claims, Martin of Virginia or Overman of North Carolina; Commerce, Martin or Newlands of Nevada; Education and Labor, Rayner of Maryland; Finance, Simmons; Immigration, Davis of Arkansas; Interstate Commerce, Newlands or Clarke; Inter-oceanic Canals, Johnston or Chilton of West Virginia; Judiciary, Culberson or Overman or Rayner; Military Affairs, Johnston, Clark or Chamberlain of Oregon; Naval Affairs, Smith of Maryland, or Tillman; Post Offices, Bankhead or Smith of South Carolina; Privileges and Elections, Johnston or Fletcher of Florida; Public Buildings, Swanson of Virginia.

POLITICAL NOTES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—According to careful estimates, 55 per cent of the women who voted in California cast their ballots for Roosevelt, 30 per cent voted for Wilson, and the remainder for Debs or Chafin. About 80 per cent of the registered women went to the polls.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 7.—Ex-Mayor Henry F. Rockwell has come forward as a candidate for Mayor on the Independent party ticket in the municipal convention on November 15. Mr. Rockwell was Mayor for three years as an Independent some years ago.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 7.—Seven dollars and a number of tickets for the Hiram W. Johnson meeting Monday were stolen from the Progressive headquarters here.

Chairman Riley of the Democratic State Committee has made public the following communication from William G. McAdoo of New York, vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee, thanking him for the work of the Democrats in Massachusetts.

The South Boston Citizens' Association, which entertained President Taft last Evacuation Day, has extended an invitation to the country's Chief Executive to be present at the annual public observance after he enters the White House. Ex-Councilor Edward F. Barry has left the President-elect to come to South Boston March 17.

Joseph Walker, defeated Republican candidate for governor, talked to members of the Brookline Equal Suffrage party at their rooms on Harvard street last evening. Mrs. Mary Hutchinson Page presided.

Mr. Walker said he had been in favor of woman suffrage for years, and that the suffrage movement was bound to succeed. Women are no reformers, he said, and there is no reason why they should not be permitted to vote. They are as philosophic able to cast a ballot as a man. It would be a good thing for the nation, he said, if women could vote, and he hoped to see the extension of suffrage for them and for the next election, men who serve in executive office.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 7.—Ricardo Gomez Robleda, representative of the revolution in the North of Mexico, has sent the following message to the Democratic party:

"As representative of General Pascual Orozco and the revolutionary movement in Mexico, I cordially congratulate you. Especially since I am very facetious at your success since the platform of the Democratic party is almost parallel to the reforms for which we of Mexico are fighting."

Returns from 999 out of 1,000 voting precincts in Massachusetts give the following vote for Presidential, Socialist and Social-Labor candidates for President and Governor:

For President—Taft, Prohibition, 2,257; Debs, Socialist, 3,321; Reimer, Socialist-Labor, 1,202.

For Governor—Hoxie, Socialist, 3,241; Hazel, Prohibition, 2,251; Hanver, Socialist, 3,241.

CAMDEN, Me., Nov. 6.—The moment Wilson's election became a certainty a vigorous fight for the gubernatorship was inaugurated here. Three candidates are in the field, Josiah H. Hobbs, chairman of the Board of Selectmen; J. Frank Rowe, ex-Representative to the Legislature, and S. Clifford Belden, a lawyer of this town.

Although a term of only 1,000 days, Candee has the distinction of having a first-class postoffice.

HAVERHILL, Nov. 7.—Senator Arthur L. Nason, who ran third in the Sixth Congressional District fight today said that he had no intention of running for Mayor in the preliminary city election next Tuesday.

BROCKTON, Nov. 7.—Albert P. Rosenthal, the Republican candidate who was defeated in the Seventh Plymouth District Representative District by ex-Representative John F. Buckley (Democrat) by 39 votes, has started proceedings for a recount. He says eighteen ballots were thrown out in Ward 3 because of certain mistakes in the marking of the ballots for Gorman.

WILSON GETS IOWA BY OVER 13,000

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 7.—Latest returns give Wilson a plurality of more than 13,000 over Roosevelt. E. G. Dunne, Democratic candidate for Governor, seems to have fallen in with the procession and seaten George W. Clarke, Republican, for Governor.

TAFT PLANS FOR FUTURE OF PARTY

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—President Taft, in defeat, is already planning for the future, not of himself, but of the Republican party.

The plans are indefinite, but he declared last night to friends who accompanied him north from Cincinnati that the party will continue to exist; that it will be as active as in the past, and that there is no reason to believe that its chances of future success were not excellent.

So far as the President's plan is concerned, he hopes to see organized a "National Republican Club," entirely apart from the Republican National Committee, which shall cherish the principles of the party and be a source of political activity, not only during election years, but at all times.

Mr. Taft declared that Mr. Wilson would face a Congress made up to a large extent of untried men who have come to believe in "theatrical publicity," and who believe that to show their faith with the people they must at all times be "insurgents" and oppose the program of the leaders.

Asked if he did not consider Mr. Wilson more conservative than radical the President told the following story about Senor Zias, head of the Radical party in Cuba:

Zias was campaigning once," said the President, 'and was accosted of being a Conservative.

"'I am not a Conservative,' said Zias. 'I am a Radical. I must speak as a Radical on the platform to keep my followers, but in office I am not a Radical.'"

ROOSEVELT WANTS A GOOD LOG FIRE

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—"A good log fire is mighty attractive," is the way Colonel Roosevelt says he feels after his strenuous campaign. He has nothing to say about politics but is trying to get a line upon the political situation so as to understand why the landslide did not come.

"I want to find out just where we stand first," he said. "The returns are far from complete. For instance, I saw in an afternoon paper that Mr. Wilson had carried Minnesota and I have just received a telegram saying that I carried it. I don't know which is correct. And I wish also to hear more fully from the South. When I have all the facts accurately, I shall make a statement."

The only thing which was accomplished as a settled fact as Sagamore Hill today was that the fight was to go on. What methods Colonel Roosevelt will adopt are unknown, even to himself.

"Of course the fight will go on," he said, with an air of finality. "In the end the cause must triumph."

Close friends of Colonel Roosevelt said he was not surprised at Governor Wilson's election, because he was at no time confident, they asserted, that the new party would be able to win its first fight. The shouting which the party made, his friends said, had pleased rather than disappointed its leader.

Colonel Roosevelt expects to drop back for the Winter into the quiet life at home which he led before the campaign, with trips to New York once or twice a week. He will probably be called once a month or oftener to make speeches, although he wishes to avoid any long trips for many months to come.

To Remove Sallowness, Blotches or Wrinkles

(From Family Physician.)

Do you realize that just beneath that coarse, sickly or discolored complexion there is an exquisitely beautiful skin of youthful transparency? If you could only bring this complexion to the surface, discarding the old one! You can—in the easiest, simplest, most natural manner imaginable. Just get an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, removing in morning with warm water. The wax assists Nature by gradually taking off the imperceptible particles of dead and hide-bound surface skin, causing no discomfort whatever. Ordinarily it takes from a week to ten days to complete the transformation. Cutaneous defects like pimples, blotches, liver spots, moth patches, freckles, of course disappear with the old skin. Nothing else that I know of will accomplish such wonderful results in so short a time.

Fine lines and even the deeper wrinkles often appear as an early age. In such cases nothing is better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. This is remarkably effective.

$40,000 FIRE IN CASTLETON, VT.

CASTLETON, Vt., Nov. 7.—A fire that threatened the whole town and was still smouldering early today, destroyed three buildings here with a loss of $40,000.

The fire started in the kitchen of the Hotel Bonanverre, and was discovered by Mrs. Charles J. Clifford, wife of the proprietor. There were no guests in the hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford attempted to extinguish the flames, but were forced to give an alarm.

The fire spread through the three-story brick hotel, then jumped to a two-story brick store building owned by A. L. Ransom. C. B. Webster's storage building caught from the heat. A high wind carried sparks and brands toward other buildings for a time, but gradually died down and the fire burned itself out.

The loss on the hotel property, owned by the W. C. Mound estate, is placed at $25,000. That on the store is placed at $6,000 and that on the stock $8,000. The storage building was valued at $1,500.

420 PASSENGERS TAKEN OFF LINER

QUEBEC, Nov. 7.—Four hundred and twenty of the 901 passengers on board the Canadian Northern Royal Mail steamer Royal George, which went ashore on the rocks in a heavy fog last night in the St. Lawrence River, ten miles from this city, were taken off early today, leaving 481 on the stranded vessel.

The Royal George, which was bound from Bristol for Quebec, will probably be a total loss. Wrecking steamers, ferry boats and tugs were pressed into service as rescue ships standing by the Royal George all night.

The captain of the stricken ship sent word by wireless that the balance of the passengers would be taken off without delay. The scene of the accident is on the north side of the channel near the Isl and of Orleans.

Greeks Enter Salonika, Turks Flee Tchatalja Mines Repulse Bulgarians

FIRST MACEDONIAN KILLED IN WAR ON TURKEY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—All the students at the American school for girls in Scutari, across the Bosphorus from Constantinople, were today sent on board a British cruiser for protection.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—An assault on the Tchatalja defences of Constantinople was begun at dawn today by Czar Ferdinand's army, according to cipher messages to the Servian legation. The Bulgarians had made a breach in the first defence and had entered when a Turkish land mine exploded and killed or wounded more than 500 men. The Bulgars fell back and the Turks again occupied an unbroken front.

ATHENS, Nov. 7.—The Turks today evacuated Salonika, leaving the city at the mercy of the advancing Greek and Servian armies.

The advance guard of Crown Prince Constantine's Greek army and King Peter's Servian army were then within a few miles of Salonika. The Turks fled toward Constantinople along the southern branch of the Orient Railway, burning all bridges behind them and tearing up the railroad.

The Greek army this afternoon entered the city and formally took possession.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—Mutiny has broken out in the Turkish army at the front and many officers and soldiers in the ranks along the Thatalja defences are being put to death daily, according to information which reached this city today through official channels.

Courtmartials are sitting here daily for the trial of officers who refused to join their regiments when hostilities broke out.

Sixty-five have already been put to death in the military prison, and 125 more are under sentence of death. Many soldiers as well as officers have been found in hiding, having disappeared when the troops left for the front.

Austria recalled her two warships from the Bosphorus today and they immediately sailed for foreign ports. This created great surprise in view of the fact that a great international fleet is gathering in Turkish waters to protect foreigners in the event of a massacre. It is believed the withdrawal of the ships is a part of the diplomatic game Austria is playing. The protecting fleet in Turkish waters, when complete, will comprise fourteen battleships, twenty-two cruisers and fifteen destroyers. A great massacre, which will drench the Asiatic portion of the Turkish Empire in Christian blood, is imminent.

Christians and foreigners in Constantinople and other Turkish centres are sending out agonizing appeals for aid.

It is not believed that the Turkish government can hold out many days longer. All the powers of Europe are speedily preparing for peace.

Awful scenes of carnage are reported from Rodosto, a Turkish port on the Sea of Marmora. After the rout of the Turkish army the Ottoman soldiers sacked the city. It was partially destroyed by fire.

The Turks allowed their hatred against the Christians to flow unchecked. Dispatches say that Turks tossed bound women and children and helpless old men into the flames.

An army of 25,000 Kurds is marching on Constantinople and it is feared they will attack the city. The plight of Christians here is deplorable.

The dangers were heightened today by an edict from the Sheik-Ul-Islam, the head of the Mohammedan priesthood, exhorting all true followers of Mohammed to rise.

There is a grave danger of pestilence in the city. The presence of 30,000 wounded men, the scarcity of water and bread and the unsanitary conditions attending the housing of an army all combine to affect seriously the conditions of public health.

Roman Catholics so far have been the greatest sufferers in Asia Minor. The French consul at Beirut reports that Mohammedans there looted several monasteries. The Turkish soldiers sent against the pillagers joined in sacking the buildings.

BABES THROWN TO FLAMES BY TURKS BEFORE THEY FLEE

(From the AMERICAN'S Special Correspondent at Constantinople.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7 (By direct route).—The shadow of war hangs like a thunder cloud over this doomed city. At any moment the storm may break and involve us in the red ruin of massacre and outrage.

In spite of all attempts to hide the truth, the people are now beginning to understand the real position. Every day the allied armies draw nearer; their ceaseless, unresting march continues. Soon Constantinople itself will be surrounded.

All the discordant elements of the population—Turk, Armenian, Kurd and others—will be crushed together into a seething mass of panic-stricken humanity. All old hatreds will blaze up into a scorching flame.

For 500 years the Turk has lorded it over the "infidel." That ascendency, it is feared, may end in a deluge of blood.

We have had a foretaste of what is to come in the news from Rodosto. Thither went bands of Nazim Pasha's routed army, driven from Lule Burgas by the victorious Bulgars.

In their terror-stricken flight, they abandoned everything. They arrived at Rodosto, famished and weary, but full of furious hate against the Christians. Then the veneer of European civilization vanished like mist in the morning sunlight. Scenes of horror followed.

The town was given up to massacre, outrage and pillage. It was set afire in seven places. Children were buried into the raging flames. In an agony of fear many took to boats and tried to get to the open sea, anywhere away from these human wolves. In some cases the boatmen were massacred; in others those who trusted to the sea found another, yet a more merciful, death beneath the waters.

Nor does Rodosto stand alone in its baptism of fire and blood. The victorious march of the Bulgarian army produces similar scenes wherever the Turks anticipate the coming of the enemy.

Nazim Pasha has sent a report to the Ministry of War which throws a flood of light upon the history of the war. The Turkish commander describes the condition of the broken remainder of his army as desperate. Discipline, says Nazim, is abominable. Fifty officers have been condemned and shot for various offences, with his own revolver in an outburst of rage at their cowardice.

FILIPINOS REMIND WILSON OF PLEDGE FOR INDEPENDENCE

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 7.—President-elect Wilson has received the following cablegram from Sergio Osmena, Speaker of the Philippine Assembly:

"The Philippine Assembly has unanimously and heartily adopted today a resolution conveying you its congratulations as well as those of the Philippine people upon your success in the election for the office of President of the United States and expressing its hope and confidence that your administration will redeem the pledge of the American people to recognize the Philippine Independence in accordance with the reiterated petitions of the Philippine Assembly."

What the Internal Bath Is Doing for Humanity

Under our present mode of living the large intestine (or colon) cannot get rid of all the waste that it accumulates—so it clogs up, and then biliousness, constipation is the result, and that lack of desire to do, to work, to think.

This waste in the colon, as we all know, is extremely poisonous, and if neglected the blood takes up the poisons—and brings on countless very serious disorders—appendicitis is directly caused by waste in the colon.

If the colon is kept clean and pure you will always feel bright, and capable—never blue and nervous—always up to "concert pitch."

There is just one internal bath which will keep the colon as sweet and clean as Nature demands it to be for perfect health—that is, the "J. B. L. Cascade."

Many thousands are using it and doctors prescribing it with great success all over the world. It is now being shown and explained by all Rike-Jarvis Drug Stores in New England.

TRAFFIC PROBLEMS DOWNTOWN UP FOR DEBATE TOMORROW

Plans for the better regulation of street traffic in the downtown district will be taken up tomorrow at a conference at City Hall between Police Commissioner O'Meara, Superintendent of Police Pierce, Street Commissioners Charles Gallivan and Duna and Mayor Fitzgerald.

The Mayor believes the matter should be remedied at once so that the public and business interests generally may not be inconvenienced during the holiday rush. The situation is one Boston merchants have long been discussing.

By reversing the direction of traffic in Court square, Police Captain Sullivan has improved the traffic conditions, owing to the construction of the new City Hall annex. Now the teams enter on the easterly side and leave by the westerly.

LEGS BROKEN IN FALL OFF PIAZZA

Lunchis Smith of No. 1520 Dorchester avenue was found in an alley in the rear of No. 285 Adams street, Dorchester, with both legs broken and his scalp cut. Believing that he had been assaulted and robbed, the police investigated and discovered he had fallen from a second-story piazza. He is at the City Hospital. It is expected he will recover.

Harvard Freshman Statistics Show It's 'Poor Man's College'

Harvard is NOT a rich man's college.

Yes, you've heard that before, we know, and you don't believe it. It doesn't have any effect when we tell you that the Gold Coast's glory has departed—that Harvard's seniors and under classmen have moved from the luxuries dormitories to the older buildings in the yard. It does not move you when we prove that that famous automobile "ad" that used to run in the college weekly—"Blank and blank runabout—only $800—well within your allowance" has disappeared.

But listen to this.

Statistics of this year's freshman class, showing where they prepared for college, shows a marked contrast with Yale's figures, on the question of private schools.

A really wealthy family sends its son to a private school. You'll admit that, surely. Well, at Harvard, of the 610 men in the class of 1916, 287 are from public schools and 291 from private schools, while twenty of the new men were self-prepared.

At Yale the proportion of men entering from private schools to those from public schools is 460 to 269, or nearly double.

At Harvard Boston Latin leads all of the high schools with 51, Cambridge Latin is second with 34 and English High third with 13. Exeter leads all of the private schools with 32.

PROFESSOR POUND URGES "MORALITY IN OUR STATUTES"

Prof. Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School, speaking at the annual public meeting of the Associated Charities of Boston, urged more "morality in our statutes," and declared that a fundamental change is taking place in the administration of law, and that more of social conscience is exercised, although judicial decisions are often in opposition to social rights.

He held that there should be certain changes in court jurisprudence, a definition of social interests and an actual application of the law to individual interests.

Jacob Sleeper Hall was nearly filled at the meeting. Dr. Charles P. Putnam presided and introduced Professor Pound and Rev. Dr. Samuel M. Crothers of Cambridge as the speakers.

Dr. Crothers spoke on "Organized Social Effort."

COOLIDGE NAMED ON CHAMBER TICKET IN BUTLER'S PLACE

Louis A. Coolidge, treasurer of the United Shoe Machinery Company, and formerly assistant to Secretary of the Treasury at Washington, has been placed in nomination as a director for three years of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, vice the late William E. Butler. The election takes place November 19.

MARCOUX SURE HE'S NOT SEEKING WIFE

Although admitting that all Paris was talking about his divorce suit, Vanni Marcoux, just arrived at the Opera House, Turin, Italy, emphatically denied he was looking for a bride in Boston. He says that he is here merely "to sing." Mr. Marcoux will sing in about twenty-five performances this season at the Boston Opera House.

GRAND TRUNK TO USE GREAT PIER

By the agreement by which the State releases the New Haven road from paying $70,000 a year for the Commonwealth Pier, the State is allowed the use of the two tracks of the New England railroad from South Boston as far as Readville. If the Grand Trunk reaches Readville it will be an easy matter to send its freight and passenger trains into the State-owned ocean terminal where the Hamburg ships will dock.

Another remarkable concession made by President Mellen in return for his release from the expensive pier contract is the abolition of switching charges between Boston & Maine and New Haven terminals and the State pier.

The switching charges from Mellen route The heavy switching charges made by the railroads for transferring freight from one terminal to another is one of the worst handicaps that Boston is obliged to bear. The switching charges average sixty cents a ton, to the Boston & Albany and vice versa re- ports, and this places the Cunard and Lor- land Lines, which use the Boston & Al- bany piers in East Boston, under a grave disadvantage that they will not tolerate.

The Cunard Line will undoubtedly notify the Boston & Albany that switching charges must be done away with and as the Boston & Albany is practically one of the Mellen lines the result will probably be the complete abolition of switching charges in Boston.

Means Much to Boston.

Fear of running up against these switching charges has kept hun- dreds of thousands of tons of New England freight away from Boston piers. New England shippers have preferred to send their goods out of New York, where there are prac- tically no switching charges, to taking chances of what they might meet in Boston.

Yesterday's hearing brought to light an- other matter not generally suspected. Gen- eral Hugh Bancroft believes there is a possibility that the consent of the Gov- ernor's Council to the acts of the Port Directors is not legally necessary. It ap- pears that the wording of the act creating the Port Directors is slightly ambiguous and that it may be possible that the old regulation providing for the consent of the Council to the acts of the Harbor and Land Commission regarding State-owned land is not binding upon the Port Direc- tors.

Chairman Hugh Bancroft came to the meeting of the Council accompanied by President Joseph R. Russell of the Cham- ber of Commerce, Ex-President George S. Smith of the Chamber, Admiral Bowles of the Port Directors and President of the Fore River Company, Chairman Rodman Peabody of the Chamber committee on metropolitan affairs, and others.

All made eloquent addresses in favor of the Port Directors' proposition.

George W. R. Harriman, a civil engineer, was the only opponent. He urged turning the matter over to the next Legislature because he thought the Port Directors had not complied with a provision of the act requiring a comprehensive plan of their proposed harbor improvements.

The hearing lasted about one and a half hours. The vote was taken in three minutes. Governor Foss presided.

Miss Thomas Forsakes Society Cares for Invalid Father

MARGARET THOMAS, WHO GIVES UP SOCIAL LIFE.

Chilton Club Member and Sugar Trust Head Now on Year's Tour of World.

Members of the Vincent and Chilton Clubs discussed with interest today the news that Margaret Thomas, a popular member of both organizations, had for- saken all the activities of the Back Bay social season, now in full swing, to ac- company her father, Washington B. Thomas, head of the Sugar Trust, on a tour of the world for the benefit of his health. Mrs. Thomas accompanies them.

Mr. Thomas has been practically an in- valid for several months. Friends of Miss Thomas said it was typical of her devo- tion to her father to forsake all the pleas- ures of society during a year for his sake. The Thomases are now on the first stage of their journey, and will follow practi- cally the route taken by President Eliot on his globe-circling trip.

The town house of the Thomases on Gloucester street is closed, as is also their country residence, Netherfield, at Pride's Crossing.

The Thomases have been noted for their magnificent entertainments. Miss Thomas has the distinction of being one of the handsomest girls in Boston. Like her sis- ter, the former Miss Helen Thomas, she is a believer in out-door life. She is an expert horsewoman and has been a famil- iar figure at all the Country Club events, and is also a favorite follower of the hounds.

Since her introduction to society four years ago at a ball given at the Algon- quin Club, Boston society has made her a favorite.

For a number of seasons Miss Thomas was a prominent member of the Vincent Club and took a leading part in their annual theatrical performances.

Stabbed on the Czar's Yacht

WALSH HONORED BY HOLY CROSS

WORCESTER, Nov. 7.—Every Holl Moose, Republican, Socialist and Suffragist, not to mention the Democrats, turned out to welcome Hon. David I. Walsh, elected Lieutenant-Governor in the Democratic sweep of Tuesday.

Especially the Suffragists. They were there in force. The women and girls are mighty interested in "David," especially the girls. The fact that he is a bachelor has been a campaign feature. He has been polled to end about remaining single and has been warned that a bachelor cannot hope to get selected to the State ticket. But he has nailed that falsehood right on the head.

However, "Davy" is more interesting than ever to the famine contingent, now that he is Lieutenant-Governor. The girls came out to the celebration in force.

When Walsh arrived in Clinton from Boston he was met by the citizens. Headed by brass bands, they paraded to the Town Hall, where a monster indoor demonstration took place.

Judge Jonathan Smith of the Second Eastern District Court presided over the meeting. Herbert Parker of Worcester, former Republican Attorney-General, and the Rev. E. A. Fitzgerald of Clinton spoke. Major Peter J. Cannon was the marshal of the parade, which passed Mr. Walsh's home on Water street.

The Rev. Edward J. Fitzgerald of Clin- ton reminded the career of Mr. Walsh as that of a poor boy who got ahead in the world.

Mr. Walsh was tremendously cheered when he rose to respond. He thanked the assemblage for the honor shown him and declared that when he has assumed his new office he will recognize no political party, race or creed in the performance of his duty.

UNION CARD CLEW TO DROWNING MAN

The Metropolitan police found the body of an unidentified man in the Charles River Basin early today. Medical Ex- aminer Magrath said it had been in the water about three days. A membership card in the name of Fred Brahum, Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' In- ternational Union of America, was found, with a membership card in the same name in the Alpha Lodge 6,463, I. O. O. F.

STEAMER FAST IN HUDSON BAY ICE

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 7.—The Cana- dian government steamer Minto is fast in the ice in Hudson Bay and it is feared may be held prisoner until Spring. If she cannot force a passage through the strait she will go into Winter quarters at Fort Churchill or Fort Nelson.

FIGHT MOTHER'S BURIAL IN CITY LOT TOMORROW

Alice C. Evarts and Norman C. Joyall will go before the Supreme Court tomor- row to fight for the right to bury Gertrude Carlisle who died at Austin Farm. Mrs. Evarts is her sister; Joyall is her son. They claim that Willard Carlisle of Cam- bridge, her husband, intended to bury her in a city lot at Fairview Cemetery in Boston.

They assert Willard Carlisle and Henry T. Frost, who is also named as a respon- dent, and who at present has the body in his custody, refuse to allow them to have the body.

The sister and son declare Mrs. Carlisle was a woman of character before her in- sanity, and is worthy of a decent and be- coming funeral. They ask the Supreme Court to prevent interference with their giving the body a decent burial and to order Frost to surrender the body to them.

GERMAN DOCTOR HAS TUBERCULOSIS CURE

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann has announced to the Berlin Medical Society the discovery of what he believes to be a practical cure for tu- berculosis. He exhibited cured patients, and declared that he had treated 652 cases with almost invariable success.

"Women's Influence Wins"

MRS. RICHARD W. CHILD.

"There is a secret, indirect interest about women's connection with politics which means more than if she had the ballot. They can wield a potent control."

By SYBIL WARNE.

Busy mothers, identify yourselves with a political party.

It is not necessary to vote as women to get your rights. Talk less about the ballot, but magnify your opportunity as a woman in a political party. THE MEN WILL HAVE TO VOTE HEREAFTER ACCORDING TO THE WOMAN'S UNSEEN, BUT NOT UNFELT, INFLUENCE.

These are the conclusions of Mrs. Richard Washburn Child, manager of the Progressive Women of Massachusetts, who judges from the results of the election that the new opportunity for women in the world is to identify herself with a political party.

It is not necessary for her to vote. Her influence is the silent, moulding influence of one who studies politics, and can persuade after she has mastered the details. According to Mrs. Child, the Progressive party has made this evident in the last campaign. The large vote polled for the Progressive party in certain localities was due to the direct and wholesome influence of women in the campaign, she declares.

Mrs. Child believes in championing the rights of the poor and insists that it can be done by women's clubs turning toward politics. She says:

The women who have worked so loyally in a great cause have reason to be thankful for the results of the election. We've got men with our ears, but we have shown what women can do by identifying their interests with one party, do in that party.

Why, you would be surprised at the way women have responded to the work of the Progressive party. They have sent in their subscriptions for a year and some of them are quite large. One woman who does scrubbing will give us fifty cents a month. What does this mean? It means that the poor toiling woman feels that her interests will be safeguarded in this party.

She must not work more than eight hours a day. She must have a living wage.

It is not necessary to vote to do this.

There is a secret, indirect interest about women's connection with politics, which means more than if she had the ballot.

Now I'm not opposed to woman suffrage in such, because I am to be understood as in favor of it.

Let the women of the country identify themselves with the Progressive party. There is work for them to do.

There is that busy mother. Must she wait till she gets the ballot to be of service to humanity? Not at all. Let her come into the interests of the Progressives and by her work and word she can wield a most potent control. Women should be carefully posted on the political situation of this country. They are certainly good at details. Let them study national problems with their husbands, but do not let the work and there.

What they have learned and studied should become serviceable to humanity.

That's what the women of today are in this party for. They want to serve humanity. The classes that are overlooked and often oppressed must be protected.

Doctors Use This for Eczema

Dr. Evans, ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin disease and the blood." The skin must be cured through the skin. The germs must be washed out, and so salves have long ago been found worthless. The most advanced physicians of this country are now agreed on this, and are prescribing a wash of wintergreen, thymol and other ingredients for eczema and all other skin diseases. This compound is known as D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

Dr. Nelson, the well-known skin specialist, writes: "I am convinced that the D. D. D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as quinine for malaria. I have been prescribing the D. D. D. remedy for years." It will take away the itch the instant you apply it. You can get enough for 50c to prove this beyond a doubt.

In fact, the manufacturers are so certain of what D. D. D. will do for you that they will be glad to let you have a $1 bottle on their guarantee that it will cost you nothing unless you find that it does the work.

WHITTIER CASE TO GRAND JURY

Interest in the mysterious death from cyanide poisoning of Fred. F. Whittier, a few days ago, was revived today when it was learned that evidence in the case had been presented to the Grand Jury for action.

Whittier was taken ill in the rooms of Wilfred Litchfield, at No. 455 Columbus avenue. A doctor was summoned and hurried him to the City Hospital, where he died. Medical Examiner Leary made an immediate autopsy, and proved that a dose of cyanide of potassium had killed Whittier. Dr. Leary, recalling the Lindell case, at once set on foot an investigation.

"There is no evidence of suicide, and it does not look like suicide," was his statement of the case.

Captain Ainsley C. Armstrong of headquarters, Captain John E. Driscoll and Sergeant Charles McCluskey of the East Dedham Street Station, who had charge of the investigation, which followed the report of Medical Examiner Leary, were the principal witnesses before the Grand Jury.

For a week the police have been trying to locate the place at which the cyanide was bought, but nothing could be learned as to their progress.

PROBE SUICIDE'S LODGE ACCOUNTS

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 7.—The books and accounts of Frederick E. Phillips of Central Falls, secretary of the second lodge of Rhode Island, New England Order of Workmen, who shot himself dead yesterday, when he learned his accounts were to be probed, were examined today by employes of the State Insurance Commission.

A meeting of the executive committee of the grand lodge was held today and steps will be taken for a thorough investigation of its funds.

Phillips was an intimate friend of J. Irving Davis, who was indicted about a month ago for the embezzlement of between $35,000 and $50,000 from the grand lodge of Rhode Island, Ancient Order of United Workmen, of which he was grand secretary.

Howard A. Fletcher, Wayne H. Whitman and George N. Vidall, examiners from the office of the Insurance Commissioner, were going over Phillips' books when he ended his life.

O'Hair a 'Mixer' Beat 'Uncle Joe' at His Own Game

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 7.—It was a "mixer" who beat "Uncle Joe" Cannon at his own game and took away from the deposed Czar even his seat in the National House. Frank T. O'Hair, the Democrat who did the trick, opposed no cause, so far as known, and made never a speech. But he shook pretty nearly every hand that would cast a ballot in the Eighteenth District.

It was for the first time since 1890 and the second time in forty years that anybody went into Cannon's made-to-order district and beat him. Even the old rag whereby "Uncle Joe walks up to a street laborer and asks for "a chaw of terbacker" failed to work. O'Hair shook more hands and more successfully and won by 500.

O'Hair is forty-two years old and was born in a log cabin in Edgar county, in which Paris located. His boyhood days were spent on a farm. After graduating from the common schools he studied law at Purdue University. He became one of the leading lawyers of his county.

THRILLING SCENES ON "MOVIES" BILL

The closing days of the week at the Premier Theatre will bring two exceptional moving picture plays to that house —plays that should, by reason of their sensational and dramatic nature, prove worthy of close interest. For one day, only, today, "Silent Jim" will be the feature picture. This is a remarkable story of the great Northwest—romantic and thrilling. This picture story is so long that it requires two reels to present it. On Friday and Saturday the feature picture will be "The Ship of Lions," a story of love and excitement, in which a number of ferocious lions are permitted to escape from their cages and wander at will about the deck of a burning ship. It is promised that these lions are not tamed or chained, but are as fierce and deadly as any at large in the jungle.

FIGHT PRICE OF COAL IN COURT

Boycott will be sought in the courts in Pittsburg by the high price of coal, as the United Improvement Association, Mayor Magee of the organization announced yesterday afternoon. [illegible] Boycott proceedings will be instituted in the courts against the coal companies which refuse to sell coal to consumers at prices not greatly in excess of those that prevailed last year.

The move that our man doesn't agree to pay to Lamsdders in theater Boston and that the others decides follow his lead to see the association wants thoroughly trained.

The report of an investigation committee, which is a merger of the two organizations, will be submitted to the annual meeting of the association at the Hotel Schenley on the night of April 15, in which the members will be asked to take action upon each separate charge of the two committees. The report of the committee of 100 was made public in September, a fifty-cent increase in the price of coal. In April the retail price, which is fixed by the local dealers in a board of twenty-five, rose in August a further 15 cents, and this increase continued in force until October 1, when the price fell about 50 cents per ton. It is asserted that the dealers happen to raise their prices at the same time as the mines raised theirs, but that the mine operators were not entirely responsible for the increase, as the same thing happened in other districts, where conditions did not differ greatly from those in Pittsburg. It is charged that the dealers have also been guilty of profiteering, and it is asserted that the dealers' profits declined at the rate of 15 cents per ton, and that the dealers' profits declined at the rate of 15 cents per ton, and that the dealers' profits declined at the rate of 15 cents per ton.

The association continues, indorsed the proposed ordinance of the park [illegible] and will report [illegible] pending in the City Council.

'Politeness Makes Happy Homes,' Says Mrs. Clemens

'Don't Wed Early; Let Men Wait Till 30, Women Till 25,'' Philanthropist Urges.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Be polite to your husband! Who ever heard of such a thing?

But according to the latest recipe for making a happy home politeness is the chief ingredient, the greatest and most important of them all.

No more throwing of flat irons and fish balls at the head of the unsuspecting spouse. If your husband is cross just smile at him. If he swears at you, smile some more, and if he throws a shoe at you, just laugh right out as though it were the biggest joke afloat.

Politeness will be the panacea for all ills, real and imaginary, from mad persons to mad dogs, and peruses by the [illegible] but nevertheless, and if he doesn't just keep right on being polite anyway as if he still had.

You know the wheels of domestic life must be kept well oiled, and politeness is just now being advocated as the best oil in the market for that particular purpose. Be just as polite to your husband as though he were a guest in your home.

Laugh at all his time worn jokes though they were the original gems of thought you ever heard. If they are not conceived that its impossible to laugh, perhaps a smile will do. If you can't force one, but wait even the dear [illegible] bored.

I have interviewed several women [illegible] cause of domestic happiness and they all agree that being polite to a husband is the golden key that unlocks [illegible] rights locked door to wedded bliss.

Don't Forget to Be Polite.

Yes, politeness is a most essential factor in making married life happy. Every woman should treat her husband with the courtesy and consideration with which she would treat a stranger of the same holding true in regard to a husband's attitude toward his wife," said Mrs. Stanley P. Clemens, the petite little lady who always devotes so much of her time and energy to philanthropy and who is always ready upon whom especially hard project in that lines interested.

That is because she has [illegible] acquire adults, but and claims no a decided accent on the charm. She is seen all sides of life, for [illegible] the life of women whose wonderfully symphonic nature [illegible] Bibles for all she has some words of helpfulness and cheer. Mrs. Clemens says:

There is too much [illegible] It married life and husband and wife forget to be polite.

Politeness is the true secret for making a happy home. It means for making anything else happy [illegible] it means a [illegible] self. Selfishness is at the bottom of all troubles. Husband and wife must learn to practice the Golden Rule with each other as with the world at large. If they are unselfish and considerate they will naturally be polite.

Wives Grow Careless.

One great cause of unhappiness is the carelessness of the wife. She grows careless in her manner of dress, careless of her personal appearance, careless of her appearance. If she only knew how much more attractive she could be to her husband if she would only [illegible] attire and appearance she could [illegible] her husband's affections.

It takes real skill for a woman to keep herself fresh and attractive and yet how many of us [illegible] are careless and slovenly about it, most of us.

Is it [illegible] for a wife to neglect her husband's affections if she has never been accustomed to it from up? Is it [illegible] away from her? I say that it is naturally going to be thoughtless that [illegible]

Money and Matrimony.

The average woman [illegible] doesn't allow such a thing to [illegible] but after [illegible] at [illegible] she makes [illegible] afternoon. [illegible] Just one thing [illegible] of that is [illegible] to [illegible] to the other woman that [illegible] other woman's husband.

She wouldn't [illegible] but [illegible] never in all the [illegible] and was ignorant [illegible] another [illegible] [illegible] a real, loving [illegible] [illegible] do [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] inside [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] first name and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

ROCKEFELLER HOME IS SIMPLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—One of the largest houses in New York is the structure being built for John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at No. 10 West Fifty-fourth street, and which is now almost completed. It is expected Mr. Rockefeller will move into his new home by Christmas. Mr. Rockefeller's house is unique in having for its dominant characteristics size and simplicity. Its cost will be about $3,000,000.

Nine stories in height, with the ninth tucked away under the semi-mansard roof, the house is higher than the University Club diagonally across the street from it, while it tops completely the home of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., directly to the East.

Each of the floors has 4,000 square feet. It has been estimated the average apartment house dweller in New York gets along with 1,200 feet in all on the square. Mr. Rockefeller's disposal may be gauged accordingly.

Plenty of room and solid comfort were the dominant ideas in the oil magnate's mind when he ordered the house. It does not boast a ballroom of a theatre, but it has a private hospital and possesses one of the finest children's playrooms in the city.

A large part of the ninth floor has been laid out for the enjoyment of the Rockefeller youngsters. It is to be an open air garden, with grass, shrubs and a sand pile in one corner, where the children may romp. Part of the ninth floor will be an open air roof garden for the adults, opening off of which there will be four open-air sleeping rooms.

The fourth floor is one for the children. Here they will have their sleeping quarters, a dining room and a huge playroom filled with all manner of toys and play apparatus. There are four children—Bessie, nine, John D. 3d, six, Nelson Aldrich, four, named after his grandfather, Senator Aldrich, and a baby son born in 1910.

WICKERSHAM ON A DAY OF TROUBLE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—It is a sad tale they tell about George Wickersham, who came to Washington to do the "trust busting" for President Taft. The Attorney-General and his wife, Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Fisher and Secretary of Commerce and Labor and Mrs. Nagel were sitting in Secretary Taft's private room in the executive offices receiving the returns. About 11 o'clock, when these present installed their successors, Attorney-General turned to Richard Forster, assistant secretary to the President, and asked for a Bible. One was brought, and Mr. Wickersham turned to II Kings, xix, 3, and announced that he had something to read, after which he read the following:

"This is a day of trouble, this day is a day of trouble, and of rebuke and of blasphemy."

Secretary Nagel then said:

"George, it is Hoot we adjourned."

The guests then went to their homes.

Miss Jessie Wilson to Devote Herself to Work of Y. W. C. A.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Miss Jessie Wilson, chief interest, when her father assumes occupancy of the White House, will not be the society life of the capital.

She will be actively interested in the affairs of the local Y. W. C. A., and the secretary of the local branch says Miss Wilson may be put in charge of the organization.

Miss Wilson will also be tendered the office of chief settlement worker as she has had extensive training in that work in Kensington and Philadelphia.

"Miss Wilson is identified with the Y. W. C. A. as a member of our National board," said Miss Florence Brown, the secretary, "and it gave us great pleasure and satisfaction to learn from her that she intended to enter the work here.

"We will give her a cordial welcome and everything will be made as pleasant as possible for her. Should she desire to do settlement work we will arrange to have her placed in charge of our department.

"Miss Wilson is a young woman of extreme refinement and very devout. There is a large field for a worker of her inclinations and ability. Nothing definite regarding an official position for Miss Wilson has been decided upon as yet. She herself must decide that."

'TURKEY TROT MUST GO.'

Girls Fall Exhausted, Society Mothers Find.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—The famous dance of the Turkey Trot and other rude dances which have caused some of the most notable debutantes of Philadelphia society to fall from exhaustion, results today in the announcement of an organized and determined movement on the part of society mothers, instigated partly by society fathers, for the abolition of the extravagant steps from Philadelphia's social ball rooms.

At dances given in two or three of the leading families within the last few days a young girl in each very prominent set was forced to leave the floor in a state of collapse, and in each case the trouble was traced to the Turkey Trot and other rude dances.

Several mothers have signified their intentions of banning the new dances. Among those who will attend the meeting are Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram, Mrs. Charlemagne Tower, wife of the former Ambassador to Germany, Mrs. Henry Harrison Frazier, wife of a banker, Mrs. Dallas Harwood Frazier, wife of a noted priest and surgeon, and Mrs. Stanley L. Page, Jr.

IMMIGRANT BOYS SCHOOL EXAMPLES, DECLARES DR. DYER

I wish American children would display the same enthusiasm that the little immigrants in the evening classes of the North End show," exclaimed Dr Franklin B. Dyer superintendent of schools at a dressing the Twentieth Century club.

In the steerage class the children were come here from foreign countries in the Summer and are unable to speak a word of English are taught to speak English without even a word of their own native tongue being spoken to them. In some instances the little immigrants are so illustrious that they go through the entire eight grades here within a year. This system was devised in Boston and is copied all over the country.

Dr. Dyer urged a "minimum stunt for each boy in school. He said:

"There are two distinct planes on which pupils have to be instructed. One might be termed the lower keyboard of the brain, in which memorizing, dates and repetition of facts were required. The second is a higher brain register in which the will, reasoning, imagination and constructive power are brought into play. The two together are the scaffolding on which to build up the man and woman who looks at life with fervor, nobility of spirit and love of country."

The answer in the movement to squelch the Turkey Trot fad in this city is Mrs. William West Frazier, who holds a position of high light in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Frazier action has called a meeting of members for tomorrow to protest against the form of the dances indulged in and the late hours to which fashionable dances have been extended.

So much for the meeting is said to have been the closing tour of one of the fiercest dances.

Several mothers have signified their intentions of banning the new dances. Among those who will attend the meeting are Mrs. J. SETTLE HADLOCK HEART BALM SUIT

Mrs. Alexene L. Hadlock of No. 110 Winthrop street, Roxbury, mother of Harvey Dewing Hadlock, whose divorce suit against Carolyn Atwood, who claimed he had never married her, has just been discharged here, settled out of court her breach of promise suit against Charles J. Gorman, the mystery man in the case through whom Harvey Hadlock met Miss Atwood.

Mrs. Hadlock is about sixty years of age. Her suit was filed in the Suffolk County court a year ago and thereafter Mrs. Hadlock had advanced $1,000 in notes and purchased household furniture for her. Judgment for the plaintiff for $1,000 was entered in the Suffolk County court.

It was a pretty fight to the finish, even when terms were said to have been agreed upon. The defendant's counsel refused to permit his client to sign the papers. He affected to suffer a brain storm, according to the aged widow, dashed from the room in the theatrical manner agreed to by her son for the ring. It was during the course of this trifling that Hadlock and the woman from whom he was denied a divorce.

At one time Mrs. Alexene Hadlock's marriage to Gorman was put off, she claimed, because Gorman had got into trouble again until after the expiration of a certain time from the granting of his divorce. At another time he was delayed on account of a death in his family, she asserted.

LUNG SPECIALIST PRAISES SIROLIN

Swiss Preparation Comes to America with Remarkable Indorsement.

No one is slower to praise a remedy than a physician. He is not one to go around and tell all and sundry he is using so-and-so. If you see a physician using Sirolin, you ought to know a remedy has real merit, as all statements of praise are based upon a degree of knowledge not possessed by the layman. Famous throat and lung specialists in Europe and America have given Sirolin the highest praise. Dr. Hoffa of Berlin, one of the greatest authorities in the world on the diseases of the throat, says: "Sirolin is a wonderful preparation which benefited me greatly. I am sure Sirolin must rank as the leading remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs and in the treatment of minor ills and all debility."

Doctors, as well as a dozen from Boston, have also written glowing letters about Sirolin. Many of these letters are published in booklets which may be had free for the asking. Sirolin is sold by druggists everywhere. Send for booklets to Sirolin Co., 25 West Broadway, New York City. Silver Jubilee Sirolin is a delightful tasting cough syrup that relieves coughs in a hurry. HARVARD HAS HARD BATTLES VANDERBILT ELEVEN IS FAST

By W. J. M'BETH.

HARVARD'S impressive victory over Princeton was a long step toward the inter-league football championship. But, brilliant as was this triumph over the winning aggregation of 1911, the Crimson has no reason to sing a paean of praise and easy moments from now until the final whistle of its annual clash with Yale.

In fact, not one of most everyone who has seen all three of the big teams in action to date has a more serious doubt in their schooling than that Vanderbilt will give Harvard and Princeton the hardest kind of a battle. The Crimson bunt appeared in perfect physical condition against the Tigers. But that was a hard game a fight all the way, and it took a great deal out of the Cambridge eleven.

HARD WORK FOR CRIMSON COACHES.

Harvard coaches are now confronted with the task of keeping their players at the present keen edge throughout the coming two weeks.

It is a big task for the pair of veteran coaches, for every one of Harvard's regulars must be in the very pink of condition if the Crimson is to have a chance against Vanderbilt. And for this reason it is likely that the Harvard coaches will resort to the hardest practice possible during the next two weeks in order to get the men in shape for the Yale game.

Harvard is looked on as the favorite to defeat Yale by a margin of 7 points. But the two weeks before the Yale game will undoubtedly be stiffest for either of the two football rivals of any earlier period in the season's play. It is during this time that the Harvard coaches will endeavor to put the finishing touches on the machine that Percy Haughton has developed during the season.

Suffer Defeat to Save Regulars.

Last year, after the Princeton game, Harvard suffered defeat at the hands of the Indians in order to rest a few of the regulars for the Yale game. Percy Haughton, however, has announced that Princeton has outgeneraled him in the matter of saving his regulars for different conditions on the Saturday game with Yale.

Lafayette's Southerners come with a big reputation. Vanderbilt has a big team, but a very fast one that has been groomed for the same occasion.

The Southern team is the counter to any of the Eastern elevens, so much so that Harvard authorities are figuring that the games with the Southern team will be really decisive as to what the Crimson will do when it faces the Blue.

Whatever may be said to the contrary, Vanderbilt will be depended upon to put up a fight for all it is worth against the Crimson. It will bear great watching for not only by Harvard, but by Yale as well, as it is at least one of the two elevens that Yale must defeat if the latter hopes to win the championship.

Although Haughton has his team the best in many years, in 1905 he had a team that he rated the Navy 6 to 0 in 1907 and in 1910 still later on a scoreless tie.

MANY PROMISING PLAYERS TO REPORT TO STALLINGS NEXT SPRING

GAFFNEY SECURES COAST LEAGUE STARS FOR PILGRIMS

By L. R. MURDOCH

Besides appointing Herman Nickerson secretary in place of Dyer Kelley, as signed, to take charge of the office affairs of the Pilgrims, President James T. Gaffney of the Boston National today announced he would not run over to Stallings. If he does Nickerson and I am not. He says he trade a pennant by phone. I would interfere with him. I did once with Kling, regrets to his sorrow, and he's what price and I don't make that mistake again. Nick and I get along well. He runs the club and I will not interfere.

Secretary Nickerson also took charge of the Boston offices in the Pilgrim baseball park, but was soon a baseball mail sorting clerk for one of the morning papers four years before for one of the Boston newspapers. He is the Boston representative of the Baseball Writers' Association of America and held a large staff of men under him.

The official averages of the players of the Boston Pilgrims, champions of the National baseball league last season, have been announced by Secretary Heydler of the league. They show that Hal Janvrin, the Pilgrims' shortstop, batted .317 to lead the regulars in that department, which has won the championship of the league. Janvrin's average is the highest of the season's record of the Pilgrims since the days of Hugh Duffy, who batted .440 in 1894.

Think James is a Wonder

President Gaffney is particularly elated on the pitching staff of the Pilgrims, which he is reported to have paid about $5,000 for. James pitched in 46 games in the major league season. He won 26, lost 8, had an average of .765, and struck out 232 batters. He walked 75 men in 336 innings. He was used 45 times in relief and 1 game was saved by him. He pitched 1 shutout game.

Myers is a big right-hander who was tried out at first base in the latter part of the season. He batted .252 in 119 games, with a total of 115 hits. He made 7 home runs, 1 triple, 18 doubles and 1 sacrifice hit. He stole 5 bases.

Myers Plays Fast Baseball

Myers is a pitching puzzle. He was signed by Connie Mack in 1910 and pitched in 3 games. He batted .000 and struck out 1 batter. He is 6 ft. 1 in. tall and weighs 190 pounds.

JAKE STAHL will retire to the chair next season IF he can develop a first baseman of world's championship weight to hold down first sack for the Red Sox. Just paste that on the wall. It's "made baseball" and it goes IF, as aforesaid.

* * *

JAKE prefers to be a playing manager. He has no bench aspirations. He is still young. His muscles are limber. His wits are nimble. He can hold those wild flings to first base. Also, he can bat. For proof, study the world series "dope" and see how often Jake was on bases when there was a chance to score.

* * *

OF course, Jake strikes out oftener than most of the other "big athletes." He has a faculty of swinging too late for some of those fast putaters. But when he cracks the ball, it goes far and while He can't hit often enough to figure near the king's footstool in the .300 row in Ernshkalli, perhaps, but enough.

* * *

THE trouble in Jake's legs. The big Sox manager is more than six feet tall. He weighs about 200. That's a lot of weight to carry around on any man's legs. Particularly if you have to use your propellers as baseball requires.

* * *

BASEBALL on the bases as I see it is a game of dash and dodge. You have to be equipped with pair that has a steel spring ankles and a rubber foot. You never set and go like the sprinter. You never guide your feet with the ground rod push like the [illegible] type. You never spring from fixed positions like the jumper. You have to be a little on your toes all the time. You corral your legs in odd tendons—the most helpful of them all the time and calling on small muscles into unexpected action as well.

* * *

JAKE likes to play baseball. If he could keep his undergoing up to the time of the end of this article [illegible] his 6 ft. 2 in. 200 pounds of [illegible] weight, he'd be as good as the best of them. But last year he "cheesed" and he fears that he'll "break" again.

* * *

WELL, who'll play first base? Harry old Jennings, the schoolboy third sacker who was shed out of the infield station with Jersey City last year, possibly with the idea of trying him out in Boston when he got a man up enough "meat" for the big leagues. Clyde Engle and Forrest Cady were tried at first when Jake was off last season. When the box go to Hot Springs in March scout will try all of his possible first base material.

* * *

CADY seems to be too good a catcher to sacrifice him at first. Still if Engle were to come up to expectations. Still about the [illegible] guard there. Cady batting is too good to lose on the couch to none than half the games. As in the case when Carrigan lost the talk of the catching. And first and first baseman are as scarce as the slave catchers—some experts say they are being made over in fact.

* * *

THEN there's Tris Speaker. Speaker was tried to play first when Dave Dooman was hard up in 1913. But "Spoke" refused saying he would rather be a good outfielder than a [illegible] first baseman. Which was right. It would not do to call in the king of the outfielders, notwithstanding Olaf Henriksen the pinch [illegible] ready to step into Speaker's shoes.

* * *

DON'T expect anything radical. Stahl will stick to first base until he finds a championship substitute. But he will gradually work somebody else into the place, and he will retire to the bench WHEN—he finds the right man. The best "dope" now is that Stahl will play less games in 1915 than he did in 1912. And it looks like Cady will have plenty of chances at first base when Carrigan is catching and if Thomas makes good.

* * *

"BUCK" HERZOG, who won the world's championship third base title during the recent controversy, is down in Maryland hunting "coons." "A bit of hard luck beat us," said "Buck" to the natives. "We ought to have won easily, but luck was against us. Perhaps," he added naively, "we didn't play quite well enough, either." The afterthought saves "Buck's" reputation for veracity.

* * *

Speaking of Herzog and the repunction he gains in the world series, reminds us that in the hotly hurly of the contest Larry Gardner never received the credit which was due to him. Besides being with timely hits that counted at the right time [illegible] per's fielding was satisfactory, and he would probably have shown well as he did during the league season, when he was hailed as the greatest of all third sackers, but for the injury to the little finger of his right hand. During the world series the two last fingers of Larry's throwing hand were bound stiffly together. Therefore he could not clench the hand and every error he made was due to his inability to squeeze the ball with more than two fingers and a thumb. No one can handle fast thrown balls unless you can squeeze them.

THE remarkable part of the following letter is the age of the woman who writes it. It is so much like what might be expected from a very young girl that it is hard to believe the writer is years older. I wish so little in it to deaden the wholesome note, and be ashamed when one is thirty . . .

I have saved money in a town and I intend to enjoy spending it. I expect to take a flyer and married another spring. He has been very kind to me and has given me a beautiful . . . home and an automobile, but, in fact, every comfort that money can buy. I have to let . . . ire.

I have not had to work hard, as I have help whenever I want it. But I am so lonesome, and long so for my work and city friends. What I eat . . . during a vacation affords no pleasure.

My husband is a good farmer, but he is not well-to-do yet, so would not be able to find a good home in a city, as I have . . . no experience. I like the . . . city folk, and we have lots of money. I wish I could keep straight. I am sure and go back and . . . where I was good. I am of strong character.

DISCONTENTED.

I want the . . . to make a special picture of the two paths that lie before her when she was asked her to be his wife.

The one on which she was traveling meant . . . ness, a place for an unselfish woman . . . At the end of the path stood a good . . . and was so blinded by the lights of . . . that she . . . the shadows which stood always behind it. The . . . time of the city and . . . her forget it was a . . . struggle and grew . . . older and was less able to make it.

A good woman . . . copies of forty are . . . put in the . . . demand as one . . . perhaps when she has passed fifty-one, her years of faithful . . . e will not save her from the . . . ol.

On the other road lay a comfortable home, the protecting . . . that goes with a home of one's own, the . . . rose, rosebud . . . many things that grow more . . . as the years . . . leave one . . . ess fitted for . . . ortunities . . . and above all, those . . . the love of a man who, she . . . ears . . . s good . . . and devoted to her.

The tragic emptiness of life alone in a city, the cry of loneliness . . . it will not be stilled by theatre . . . dances and gay . . . pastimes as one grows older, these and more should lead . . . to encourage . . . to kneel down on her knees and thank a kind heaven for . . . what it has spared her.

"Can you see any hope for me?" . . . I see nothing else ahead. To realize that hope, my dear girl, . . . think less of yourself. Show some appreciation of your husband . . . your friends in the city to come and visit you, life . . . a little for a more . . . fortunate than you, and be grateful every day in the year that you have opportunity to do more for others than a narrowed existence in the city ever permitted.

First Letter: On the Fallacy of "Training Down" to a Comfortable Size.

Dear Sis—If you could see me now you'd surely wonder what witchery had wrought the transformation for you wouldn't recognize your sister Mary in the graceful woman I am to-day.

You remember a year ago, that huge mountain of flesh you knew as sister Mary. You remember how I used to sit and cry by the hour because I was so fat. And the change from me to the girl you see now is so great that I could almost write a book on the subject, but I didn't realize . . . ook that big.

You remember, too, how I used to starve myself on . . . ruit and . . . round the edges . . . the table . . . and . . . can call it . . . , but I . . . starving for so . . . the back . . . ing . . . ing to . . . ing . . . ing . . . ing

BROADWAY JONES

By BERTRAND BABCOCK.

"THAT'S your uncle's will," Spotswood told Jackson. "You can take this copy along and read it when you have time." Then noting Sammy.) "This is Sammy. You would hardly know him, would you, Jackson?"

Boys had always appealed to Broadway and he smiled on the fat sum sullen Sammy.

"Well, Sammy," he said, "you haven't grown very tall, but you've got pretty wide."

"Napoleon Bonaparte was short and stout," was Sam's glib response. "Well, what are you laughing at? He was! I seen his picture."

Wallace joined in the laughter at Sam's expense and the latter turned to him instantly as he saw the cigarette hanging from the advertising man's mouth.

"If you keep on smoking cigarettes, you'll weaken your brain," he said sharply to Wallace.

In an instant his father was on his feet, saying sternly: "Samuel, don't you know better than to say such a thing?"

The boy looked his parent straight in the eye.

"Well, that's what you told me, pa, when you caught me behind the barn," he mumbled.

Samuel was escorted from the room while the others laughed over the incident. As they were still bantering the judge over the gigantic ambitions of his son, the doorbell rang and the judge went to answer it. The moment he left the room Broadway turned brusisly to Wallace.

"You see," he said with a trace of bitterness, "nothing left but the plant. I've got to sell!"

Not entirely did Wallace agree.

"Yes, but not at their price. Didn't you hear? The plant showed a profit last year without any advertising."

"I can't afford to take a chance. This is Thursday. He said they'd have to know by Saturday noon."

"That's a blot!"

"You don't seem to realize the enormity of the amount," exclaimed Broadway, with visions of lobster palaces. "Twelve hundred thousand dollars!"

With a pitcher and two glasses on a tray Mrs. Spotswood interrupted their conversation. It was "nice cold lemonade." She had made it herself and hadn't brought any for the judge, as he didn't drink it.

Their glasses half emptied, Wallace and Jackson stared at her.

"I put a little drop of whiskey in it," she exclaimed. "The Judge would have a fit if he knew it was in the house. He's a temperance crank," she confided, and left the room.

When Spotswood returned he explained that a stranger had inquired at the door for Jackson. Spotswood had not admitted that he was inside, but the man had insisted that he was and said that he would wait for him at the hotel. It was not Pembroke, as the Judge had met Pembroke.

"It's Mrs. Gerard's lawyer," Broadway whispered in an aside to Wallace.

The Girl Arrives

Wallace was sure that it was not, and that such a supposition was foolish, but he suggested that he himself go to the hotel and see who the man was. He started to the door to carry out his suggestion, when Clara entered with a demure young woman clad in a trim tailor-made gown and a plain, but becoming hat. The girl stood quietly, self-possessed, while the Judge gave Wallace directions for getting to the hotel he had just left. Something in Clara Spotswood's face told him that she would like to point out the way to him, and so he pretended to misunderstand the directions. Clara at once volunteered, saying that she was going that way anyway. So Wallace and Clara set out, the young advertising man with a manner more jaunty than he had worn in months.

The judge led the young woman, who had remained near the door, toward Jackson. Her eyes rested upon Broadway's somewhat worn face, and that youth received the first shock of his life of this unusual character. The eyes seemed to him to be blue, then they shifted to gray. Her yellow hair, escaping from either side of her hat, framed the eyes in a background of harmony. Upon her face Jackson thought for a moment that there was a bit-terness, a contempt for the man she was beholding for the first time. He could not be sure, and when he looked again there was absolutely nothing in the face except a grave interest. Beneath the calm piercing of those blue-gray eyes Broadway lowered his own. There was a sound of drumming in his ears.

The voice of the Judge seemed to come from a distance, as, forcing himself into the attention of Broadway, it broke the strange influence over Jackson.

"This is the little lady I've been telling you about," said the Judge, "Miss Richards. And this gentleman is Mr. Jones, Josie."

Through force of a will that sometimes seemed to be slumbering within him, Jackson resumed his normal manner, if not his normal poise.

"Delighted!" he exclaimed. "I've been hearing a lot about you, Miss Richards."

Again the girl's eyes met his with that strange penetration. Broadway almost shuddered at the icy gleam he seemed to see there.

"And I have heard—much—about you," she said.

And then if strange thing happened to Broadway Jones. He saw her very words. If I have heard—much—about you"—his imagination set in the treasonesent of Broadway, on that closing his he could read them. And about word travelled in a coiling, writhing was a little dash of fire, a little ing centre of hostility.

hat Blue-Gray Eyes Did to Broadway

ROM this second shock, which emanated from the remarkable eyes of this young woman Broadway not recover as rapidly as he had pay recovered from the first. In a sort dream he heard the voice of the Judge the customary civilities of Jonesville to visitor. He heard without realizing al later that the Judge had explained the girl that he had sent for her that night explain matters at the plant the new owner, and that probably she uldn't need the books to give Jackson ood idea of the financial arrangements.

During the Judge's remarks to the girl e had turned her eyes from Jackson, so it while he gradually began to become old Broadway, still he did not dare on her too closely. His complete restora-on to his usual glib point of view came, ever, when Spotswood said:

"The old gentleman told me you showed result of about forty thousand dollars t year. Is that right?"

The thought of forty thousand dollars s a rule to the spendthrift. He heard kfancy a head waiter at Speary's turning ong a Chicago millionaire from the table the corner by the window, just Broadway had made a certain signal to him.

The girl answered the judge:

"Oh, it was more than that."

For the first time since the girl had oked at him in that strange way Jackson s his own eyes rest upon her face.

"Can you beat that?" he exclaimed al-most at his ease through a mental struggle. "The best chewing gum in the world!"

Because They Did Not Elope

By HERBERT TEMPLE

"I LIKE your appearance very much, indeed," said Samuel Smith as he looked kindly at young John Carrington. "Your references are first rate, too, but I have one serious objection. The superintendent of my farm must be a married man. I cannot engage a bachelor."

"May I ask the reason why?" asked Carrington.

"The reason is this. I am a widower with four daughters. Some time ago I engaged a coachman, a fine, handsome fellow. He eloped with my eldest daughter, Emily.

"Then I had a gardener, a smart young man with most charming manners. He ran off with my second daughter, Sally. After a while I engaged a Frenchman to cook for me. Like a fool I never thought of danger; but off he went with my third daughter, Olive. They have a restaurant in New York and I paid for it. I am not going to be fooled again. My fourth daughter, Edith, is living with me, and I am going to keep an eye on her. No man enters my service now who is not married or old and ugly. I am quite sure you would be just the man I want for the job, but I make it an absolute condition that you must be married."

"Until now I have unfortunately not been able to marry, but if I could get this position with you I promise I will do so right away."

"That is not enough," said Smith. "You must be married when you come here."

"Well, if you will promise me the job on that condition, I will introduce you to my wife on Monday next."

"That settles it," exclaimed Smith. "Is she young and pretty?"

"She is the prettiest girl you ever laid your eyes on, and I am madly in love with her."

Smith and Carrington then signed a contract, and Carrington departed. He met his sweetheart at their usual meeting place near the church.

"You look prettier than ever," he said, "and I hope the question I am going to ask you now won't make you feel less happy. Will you marry me a little sooner than any of us had thought of? I have got a position now that makes it possible."

"Why, of course, John," she whispered, "I will marry you whenever you wish."

"Will you marry me tomorrow, Edith?"

"Yes," she said.

When John entered Samuel Smith's library on the following Monday morning to show him his marriage certificate he was received most cordially.

"It is rather strange that your bride's name is an old one in our family. My daughter, my mother and my father's mother's names were all Edith. Well, thank the Lord, I may rest easy now. I turn my affairs over to you with the greatest confidence, for to tell the truth I don't know much about them myself."

"I am sure Mr. Carrington will prove quite worthy of your confidence," said a voice behind them.

John turned round and saw his wife. He felt rather annoyed that she should address Mr. Smith in this familiar manner.

"You forget that you have not been introduced to Mr. Smith yet," he said. "May I have the pleasure of introducing my wife to you, Mr. Smith?"

"Who?" asked Mr. Smith, and looked around the room. "I do not see her. Attor me, therefore, to introduce you to my daughter Edith."

Strong Tone at Markets Opening. Realization Checks Advance. Coppers Firm.

STATE STREET, Nov. 7.—At the opening of the local market today the trading was very brisk, and the leading coppers made substantial gains, but the higher prices induced profit-taking, and the market grew quiet and receded slightly. North Butte, East Butte and Lake were the features at the opening. A few of the prices at 11 o'clock were:

Calaveras, 79½, up 1; E. Butte, 15½, unchanged; N. Butte, 36¾, up ½; Trinity, ⅝, up ⅛; Lake, 31, up 1; Butte-Superior, 47⅝, off ⅛; Shannon, 14½, unchanged; Indiana, 55⅛, up ⅜.

Colonel Samuel P. Colt, president of the United States Rubber Company, when asked for his opinion of the election results, said:

"Although a lifelong and ardent Republican, I am glad that the election is over and that the results were so decisive. Although my party was defeated, I am not predicting a period of calamity and disaster, because there is to be a change in the administration. I believe that we are to have good times. The crops are so bountiful and general business is so good that I feel confident that these conditions will not be upset by any feeling of uncertainty as to what the new administration will do in the way of revising the tariff and with respect to other matters."

New York Opening.

Heavy buying of American stocks abroad caused general price advances at the opening in New York today. The buying movement was attributed both to the election result and to private advices which diminished the possibility of an European conflict over the Balkan war.

Rock Island common made the biggest advance, gaining 3 points and going to 20⅝. Buying of this issue was exceptionally heavy. Missouri Pacific advanced ¼ to 45, and St. Paul made a similar gain. Among the other advances were United States Steel common, ½; American Smelting, ⅝; Baltimore & Ohio, ¾; Southern Railway, ¾; Southern Pacific, ⅝; Canadian Pacific, ⅝; Union Pacific, ⅝; Lehigh Valley ⅝, and Reading ⅝.

The copper group showed exceptional strength. Anaconda moving up ½ to 45, American Can was another firm issue. Westinghouse moved up ⅝, while Pittsburgh Coal rose ¼. Other issues in which fractional gains occurred were American Ice, Interborough-Metropolitan, American Telephone & Telegraph, and American Car Foundry. The New York Curb was firm.

East Butte Developments.

The East Butte Copper Mining Company has resumed sinking in its shaft and will take it to the 2,000-foot level, which will be 500 feet deeper than the present lowest working. Some of the best ore yet mined from the property comes from the 1,200 foot level, the average value in copper being about 19 per cent. The largest ore body is on the 800 foot level, upon which the company has been mining for several years, and the largest portion of it has been taken out on that level. The grade of ore on the 800 foot level is 7 per cent. Shaft sinking does not interfere with mining, and the production will be maintained around 1,225,000 pounds of copper a month.

The East Butte smelter is operating two furnaces, but plans were made long ago for an enlargement of the smelter. The steel has been ordered and received, but as the work would necessitate a suspension of mining for some time, and the company would lose the benefits of the present high copper price, it was decided to postpone the smelter changes. The East Butte owns, beside its 203 acres of mineral ground on the east side of the Butte district, mining properties at Elkhorn, Anaconda and Pittsburg, Montana, which are to be developed when the smelter is enlarged.

Foreign Financial News.

The Bank of England's minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 5 per cent today.

The weekly report of the Bank of England shows: Total reserve decreased £835,000, circulation increased £48,000, bullion decreased £787,000, other securities decreased £624,000, other deposits decreased £50,000, public deposits decreased £1,547,000, government securities unchanged. The proportion of the bank's reserve to liabilities is now 47.50 per cent, against 47.70 per cent. last week and compares with an advance from 47.50 to 49.75 per cent. in this week last year.

London copper warrants were strong and 17s. 6d. higher at the opening at £76⅝ for spot and £77⅛ for futures.

A cheerful sentiment was apparent in London financial circles today and consols were harder. The movement in home rails was quiet. There was a display of strength in American railway shares due to repurchases, especially of United States Steel shares.

EXPECT EXTRA TARIFF SESSION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Governor Wilson is expected, in political circles here, to call an extra session of Congress immediately after his inauguration to revise the tariff.

Three tariff bills passed by Congress and vetoed by President Taft, need only to be passed again to get the signature of the Democratic President.

In these quarters it is held that the Democratic platform pledges Governor Wilson to issue the call.

The Democratic platform declares for the "immediate downward revision of the tariff," and this expression since the campaign of 1908 has been held to mean revision at an extra session.

The Democratic leaders in Congress confidently expect an extra session and they look forward to it eagerly as an opportunity for at least passing bills which for the past two years have lacked only the President's signature to become law.

JUDGE STIRS UP ETTOR DEFENCE

SALEM COURTHOUSE, Nov. 7.—Considerable stir was caused at the Ettor trial today when Judge Quinn asked the defence to have their witnesses ready in the anteroom in order that time might be saved. Attorney Peters replied that he would do so, providing he was assured his witnesses would be left alone.

Judge Quinn retorted: "I see no reason why the witnesses should be approached."

The first witness called today was Pasquale Moro, a Lawrence machinist who was employed in the Lower Pacific Mill at the time of the strike. He testified that he went out in sympathy two days after the strike was called, but went back to work after being out three weeks.

The witness told how he had seen Giovannitti on the morning of January 29, "I did not take part in the parade," said the witness. "Giovannitti told the people that morning that he wanted them to go home and enjoy their kids. He said: 'If you have no kids you can play cards.' Continuing, Giovannitti said: 'Keep away from the police and Canal street. If you don't do that I say I will go home to New York.'"

Pelted Ice at Soldiers.

The witness added that he had seen Giovannitti when strikers were throwing ice at the soldiers. Giovannitti was several of the strikers and said: "Don't throw ice at the soldiers. The soldiers will shoot you."

During cross examination the witness admitted that he had talked with Angelo Pocco concerning testifying at the present trial.

"Are you sure that Giovannitti told the people to go home and play with the kids?" asked District Attorney Attwill.

"Yes, sir."

"What word did he use for kids?"

"Bambina."

The next witness was Edward Frantzbe, a painter. He was a member of the strike committee.

A Husband for Every Woman

One of the interesting facts revealed by the new census figures is that in many parts of the United States the bachelors greatly outnumber the spinsters.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

The fourth in the series of talks before the classes of the Boston Y. M. C. A. Automobile School by different dealers and agents of automobiles was given at the school building, No. 288 St. Botolph street. The speaker was W. H. Shutt, general manager of the H. J. Koehler Company, agents for the Hupmobile. Mr. Schutt's subject was "The Design and Care of the Hupmobile." He said the automobile buying public does not realize there are but few genuine long-stroke motors.

Next Wednesday J. W. Cooke will speak on "The Use and Care of Storage Batteries for Electric Lighting and Ignition Work for Gasoline Automobiles."

The demand for the Diamond Safety Tread Squeegee tires during the three last days has been increased a hundredfold and the local Diamond office is being rushed. A great deal of this is, of course, the result of the energetic advertising campaign the company has inaugurated and due, in a measure, to the full page ad carried in the AMERICAN on Sunday last. This ad. attracted attention all over New England.

Fred C. Hoyt, New England distributor of the Havers Six, has gone on a trip to the factory where he is endeavoring to make arrangements for an early delivery of the 1913 product.

John Shepard, president of the Shepard-Norwell Company, has established a record for tire mileage. On his car he has two 34x4 heavy-car type tires, one of which was applied September, 1911, and has run 9,000 miles. The other tire was put on his Knox car in November, 1911, and has covered 9,300 miles. The service these tires have given Mr. Shepard is, according to Local Manager Ayres, not exceptional in the case of Fisk tires.

From 1902 to 1912 and still performing efficient and satisfactory service, is the record of Locomobile Motor No. 46. This engine, among the first of the two cylinder type, was originally in a 1902 Locomobile and after several years of satisfactory service was removed to make way for the installation of a four-cylinder motor. This motor is now installed in a twenty-two foot launch owned by C. P. Clark of the San Pedro (Cal.) Boat Club. Mr. Clark says he gets from fifteen to twenty miles an hour out of his launch.

ANGER DAKOTAN WITH QUERIES

EAST CAMBRIDGE COURTHOUSE, Nov. 7.—Dakota Dan's forty-first day on the witness stand at the Russell will hearing today was marked by frequent outbursts of indignation on the part of the rancher-claimant. In answering Attorney Nason's questions Dakota Dan made speeches in which he expressed his feelings with vigor.

"Did you ever tell Horace P. Whitmore that you threw a man out a window and that he landed further than h——?"

"No, no, no!"

"Did you ever tell Mr. Whitmore that you were arrested for doing this and spent several days in jail; that you were able to escape because the jailer was a Mason, and with the aid of Masonic friends you succeeded in getting away from the law in New York?

"No. I never said anything like that. That's too big a lie."

If Horace Whitmore said hat, he is the biggest liar in the courtroom. I defy you or anybody else to prove this thing. I'll give you $1000 if you can back it up. You and your whole detective force can't put black marks against me, much as you have tried in years."

"Did you have a conference at the Marlestic Hotel at Minneapolis in 1908 with Frazier, Samuel Dixon, proprietor of the hotel, Frank Morton and Robert C. Jones?"

"No."

"Do you know that asked Attorney Nason?"

"Yes, I met them in April, 1909."

WIRE BREVITIES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Women cigarette smokers are now using long bone silver-tipped cigarette holders, a lately arrived European novelty.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A wife who quits her husband, then comes back only to leave again, is of less value than one who goes and doesn't return, according to a ruling of Justice Blanchard.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 7.—"Future American women will have thick necks, broad shoulders, deep chests and semi-masculine voices," said Rev. E. Hez Swann, Baptist minister. "Feminine participation in business and athletics will bring this about."

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Detectives searching for robbers who attempted to open a grain company's safe came across a trail of jam and soon after arrested Robert Wright, ten, and Thomas Scott, eleven, who are said to have confessed.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 7.—A young woman who gave her name as Clara Kenyon Washington was taken in custody by the police, suffering from mental aberration caused by excitement over the election returns. She talked incessantly of Theodore Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Saturday November 16, will usher in not only the Horse Show, but the "ushereties" a corps of young women—maybe—who will conduct society to their boxes and seats.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 7.—Fifteen persons will today sacrifice three inches of skin to be grafted to the burned body of Mrs. Sigurd Benson, a patient at the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

Eugene Maurer, a jeweler of Fond du Lac, Wis., wrote to the hospital and offered to give a triangular piece of his body for saving the life of Mrs. Benson. The Democratic Party's Victory and Its Responsibility

THE Democratic party has won its greatest victory in more than half a century, but it has won because of a divided opposition.

President Wilson will receive the electoral votes of a larger number of States than any candidate for President since the first national convention seventy-two years ago, but he will not have a majority of the popular vote of the country.

These facts are stated so that the true situation shall not be obscured. They do not in any way dim the glory of the Democratic triumph, nor diminish the credit due Governor Wilson for his errorless and brilliant leadership in the campaign.

But the truth should give to all Democrats a profound sense of responsibility—a deep realization that the power has been confided to them for hard work and for public service, and not for mere rejoicing and self-congratulation, and still less for the mere division of political spoils.

Woodrow Wilson, speaking on Thursday night in Madison Square Garden, declared that the certainty of triumph filled him not so much with elation as with a feeling of solemnity and consecration.

It was a good thing for the Democratic nominee to feel able to say.

The very magnitude of the Democratic victory is the measure of the enormous responsibility entailed upon the successful nominee to the party for which he stands.

The whole spirit and purpose of our government is in process of reformation and reconstruction to meet the changed conditions of the time. The Democratic party is an experiment by the people in the new ideals of republican government. It is on trial. It must now win or lose, not by its professions, but by its actions in power.

The American people have become a restless, intelligent and exacting jury sitting in quadrennial judgment upon the merits of parties and of public servants. If men and parties make good in performance, this electoral jury votes them its confidence and a continuance of power. If men and parties fail in fidelity or capacity—if they forfeit public pledges or fail in righteous execution to make good in the people's cause—the people are swift to render a judgment of condemnation and dismissal.

The party and the President which assume the reins of government in March must rise or fall by their practical performance or their failure to perform.

William Howard Taft four years ago went into power on a tidal wave of popular approval. No new President ever carried into office a more universal confidence and affection. He had nearly a million and a half majority of popular votes behind him. He had 321 votes in the Electoral College to Bryan's 162. He was propped and sustained by the positive good will of the country.

And yet today, William H. Taft, an honest man and a lover of his country, by the simple failure of himself and his party to fulfill his own and his party pledges, goes out of office discredited and condemned with his majority, popular and electoral, shrunken to a minority so pitiful that it is in itself a rebuke great enough to break his heart.

As for the great Progressive party, which Theodore Roosevelt has ably led to such astonishing and significant results in Tuesday's election, its future will depend as much upon Woodrow Wilson as upon Theodore Roosevelt.

If President Wilson proves to be as progressive as a majority of his countrymen—if the Democratic party is both courageous, and constructive, not recklessly radical, neither Bryanized nor fossilized—the party will gain a still greater triumph four years from now, and there will be no need of a new progressive party.

The Democrats of Massachusetts Face a Great Responsibility

A GREAT responsibility rests upon the Democracy of Massachusetts.

We Democrats can make Massachusetts a Democratic State, or we can fling away all hope, by the way we conduct ourselves during the trial which fate and our own good behavior has given us for the coming year.

The responsibility rests upon every Democrat who has been elected to office. Every Democrat in the coming Legislature, together with the elected members of the State ticket, can, by their individual work, help to fortify our party in the confidence of the people of Massachusetts, or, by their faults, they can mar for all time the hope of the party in Massachusetts.

We should not forget that not only is our power new and strange in this State, but that we are facing throughout the Nation a new and strange situation. During the last two generations the Democracy has been opposed by the Republican party and the beneficiary of the Democratic shortcomings was the Republican party. Today there has arisen in the land a new power called the Progressive party.

In its very first combat it has slain the old Republican organization and is now the militant force which faces the Democracy. Its principles are, at least, as advanced and progressive as our own. Its membership is quite as intelligent, and it has the enthusiasm of youth and of the flush of first success.

We have won this triumphant victory and we deserve it, because we were as progressive in our attitude towards the great pressing questions of the hour as President Roosevelt, Mr. Bird, and the Progressive party. Indeed, on the railroad question, Governor Foss and the Democratic party were even more progressive in this State.

Therefore, we held our own party, in unbroken, unwavering ranks, and we had the tremendous advantage over our new opponents of being a matured, completely organized, historic party, enjoying the great probability of success.

Men who wanted to be certain of a progressive administration preferred Wilson to Roosevelt, and the Democratic party to the new party, because it seemed to have a greater chance of being elected.

We must bear these facts in mind and never for a moment forget that this was a great victory for progressive ideas and ideals.

It was the successful effort of the people of America to destroy the alliance between the representatives of the government and those financial agents who have been piling up huge fortunes at the expense of the country.

In Massachusetts this alliance was represented by Lodgeism, and today all that is left of Lodgeism is Lodge. He stands like the stump of a tree bereft by a gale of its leaves and branches.

We have won this great fight on our party principles. The declarations of our party platform in which those principles were enunciated must be to us as the compass to the mariner. If we heed them we shall steer a safe course and we shall bear as our freight the rights which the people have demanded and for which they have waited until their patience is almost exhausted.

These are our promises and the freight we bear to the people of Massachusetts:

1. The Initiative and Referendum.
2. Emancipation from the Railroad Monopoly.
3. Deliverance from the undue political influence of those who seek to buy special privileges by contributions to campaign funds, and every other promise contained in that splendid declaration of principles.

Why the Mass of the Progressives Refused to Follow Roosevelt

ROOSEVELT'S great strength at the beginning of his campaign and his fatal blunder later were both clearly pointed out at the time by the AMERICAN, and the election Tuesday shows that our judgment was right.

The returns show that this country is alive from sea to sea with the spirit of political progress.

Wilson has won his fight because—in spite of certain reactionary influences in the Democratic party—Wilson has been accepted by a plurality, but not by a majority, of the people as the best instrument with which to secure the reforms the people desire.

In a double-column editorial, written by Mr. Hearst on February 22, the day after Colonel Roosevelt's "charter of Democracy" speech before the Ohio Constitutional Convention, was said:

"Social and industrial liberty, to be achieved through the newest and most approved agencies of a popular Democratic government, is the issue on which Colonel Roosevelt will oppose the ultra-reactionary of the White House.

"The Democratic party yesterday received a ringing and masterful challenge to nominate at Baltimore a clean-cut and absolutely sincere Progressive—or take the consequences in November.

"In the Osawatomie speech Roosevelt expressed only the personal ideas of Roosevelt. He advocated the new Nationalism, which meant the concentration of power in the Federal government and in the hands of the Executive. He expressed merely his exaggerated sense of his own importance and a desire to transform the office of President into a dictatorship. These ideas aroused no response in the hearts and heads of the American people, and as the representative of such ideas Roosevelt became an insignificant figure, an unsound radical, preaching an un-American doctrine.

"But in this Columbus speech Roosevelt has abandoned the personal policies of Roosevelt Tyrannus and has enunciated the progressive principles of the thoughtful and sincere element of his party and of the people. He has planted his standard at the head of the great progressive movement of the country. He has declared the doctrines of that movement and offered himself as the leader of the Progressives—not on his principles, but on their principles.

"The age is progressive. There is not a principle which the Progressives proffer, and which Roosevelt has accepted and enunciated, which will not be written into the law of the land within a very few years. * * *

"The only question is, which party will respond to the progressive demands of the people."

Thus it is made plain that on the twenty-first of February, Roosevelt lifted, for a moment, into the clear air a standard of progressiveness so catholic in its promise and so free from party malice that it seemed likely to make an irresistible appeal to the whole body of American progressives.

This hope perished utterly in the envy and rancor of the struggle in the primaries and in the two Chicago conventions.

Immediately after Colonel Roosevelt's convention in August, Mr. Hearst in an interview in the London Standard republished very widely in the United States, told why the Roosevelt campaign would only half succeed.

Mr. Hearst said:

"The Independent movement in the United States is a real and powerful force. It began with the Independence League in New York and developed strongly in various sections of the country. * * *

"Mr. Roosevelt undoubtedly realized the extent and importance of this third party sentiment, and when he was defeated for the Republican nomination at Chicago he at once offered himself as the leader of this third party movement. * * *

"Mr. Roosevelt adopted in their entirety the principles which the third party advanced, and subtracted little or nothing from the national platform of the Independence party adopted at Chicago in 1908.

"The advocates of this third party movement are enthusiasts. They believe absolutely in the necessity of a third party to free the country from the corrupt control of both the old parties. They believe that both the old parties are in the grip of the privileged interests, and that the stronghold of these special interests cannot be broken. * * *

"The progressive sentiment in the United States is tremendous. The men who class themselves as progressives, no matter to what party they belong, constitute a considerable majority of the voters of the United States. * * *

"Why, then, is there not a notable defection from the Democratic party to the new third party?

"Because Mr. Roosevelt committed the distinct error of making the third party movement almost entirely Republican, recruiting it almost entirely from the progressive wing of the Republican party, and officering it with Republican officeholders.

"Mr. Roosevelt, being a Republican, should have had a Democrat, and, preferably, a Southern Democrat, for Vice-President.

"If Roosevelt had been as anxious to unite the progressives as he was to disrupt the Republicans, he would have had a Democrat on the ticket.

"Therefore, I believe that the third party movement will only half succeed in this campaign, AND, THEREFORE, MANY ARDENT PROGRESSIVE DEMOCRATS ARE SUPPORTING MR. WILSON—JUST AS I AM."

Mr. Hearst's prophecy of two months ago has been fulfilled. Mr. Roosevelt has disrupted the Republican party; but he has not united the Progressives.

By MABEL BARCLAY URY

I AM going to ask you to read with me today three letters which have especially appealed to me. It is hard enough, as we all know, to make a home and earn money besides. But what when there is the additional handicap of illness or infirmity?

Think what courage it takes to compete with well people; people who can see, hear, walk, do all the things which we aren't sufficiently grateful for until we lose them! Just the effort is wonderfully brave, and think what it means to have achieved success!

There is a man out West who is a cripple, confined to his bed. But one thing he hasn't lost is his backbone. He has had a telephone put by his couch, and over that telephone he has built up one of the biggest magazine subscription agencies in the country.

That is the kind of spirit that we are proud to call American. And that is the spirit shown in these letters I have selected from others of the same sort that from time to time have come to me. In two of these there is a special point of interest, for one of the writers is a woman in her sixtieth year, and another tells a touching story of a daughter's devotion. Every one of them shows that most glorious of qualities—sheer, unbreakable, indomitable grit!

And here are the letters:

One Invalid's Work.

After having been sick nearly two years, I am now better, but not able to do my house work. I thought I must help some, so I made a sofa pillow and the storekeeper put it in his show case and sold it for me. Then I heard the lady across the street say her husband could not buy overalls big enough for him, so I told her if she would get the cloth I would make some for him. She did and her husband told the men in the shop just below where we live, so I have had quite a few to make.

This may help some one, as it would be some thing no one would think of making.

MRS. GRACE WILLIAMS,
No. 320 Second av., Woonsocket, R. I.

Dresses and Bags.

I would like to contribute my mite, hoping to encourage some other "shut-in."

I have been confined to a wheel chair nearly twelve years, but make infants' and children's dresses, up to ten years; also, laundry and sewing bags and aprons of all kinds, and, aside from the money part, I know the pleasure of being able to accomplish something.

I am in my sixtieth year.

MRS. MARY F. TOWLE,
No. 21 Hartwell st., Waltham, Mass.

Makes Cane Seats.

I am a widow with eight children. My husband died when my baby was but two months old. My oldest daughter, who was old enough to help me, had very poor eyesight.

I had to do something to earn our living. I took it—washing and ironing, which helped me along. After a while my daughter was able to do some knitting and caning at home, which she had learned at Perkins Institute for the Blind, in South Boston, and we are now earning a very nice living.

MRS. C. LANGENBACK,
No. 98 Briggs av., Pittsfield, Mass.
